Archaeologies Of Memory:

Archaeologies of Memory Ruth M. Van Dyke, Susan E. Alcock, 2008-04-15 A unique collection of newly written essays by archaeologists working in a variety of contexts and geographical areas Archaeologies of Memory is a groundbreaking text that presents a coherent framework for the study of memory in past societies Serves as an accessible introduction to central issues in the study of memory including authority and identity and the role memory plays in their creation and transformation Presents a collection of newly commissioned essays that provide a coherent framework for the study of memory in past societies Brings together essays from both anthropological and classical archaeologists Includes contributions drawn from a variety of cultures and time periods including New Kingdom Egypt and the prehistoric American Southwest

Archaeologies of Memory Ruth M. Van Dyke, Susan E. Alcock, 2019-02-14 Archaeologies of Remembrance Howard Williams, 2012-09-20 How did past communities and individuals remember through social and ritual practices How important were mortuary practices in processes of remembering and forgetting the past This innovative new research work focuses upon identifying strategies of remembrance Evidence can be found in a range of archaeological remains including the adornment and alteration of the body in life and death the production exchange consumption and destruction of material culture the construction use and reuse of monuments and the social ordering of architectural space and the landscape This book shows how in the past as today shared memories are important and defining aspects of social and ritual traditions and the practical actions of dealing with and disposing of the dead can form a central focus for the definition of social memory

Archaeology and Memory Dušan Borić, 2010 Memory can be both a horrifying trauma and an empowering resource From the Ancient Greeks to Nietzsche and Derrida the dilemma about the relationship between history and memory has filled many pages with one important question singled out is the writing of history to memory a remedy or a poison Recently a growing interest in and preoccupation with the issue of memory remembering and forgetting has resulted in a proliferation of published works in various disciplines that have memory as their focus This trend to which the present volume contributes has started to occupy the dominant discourses of disciplines such as sociology philosophy history anthropology and archaeology and has also disseminated into the wider public discourse of society and culture today Such a condition may perhaps echo the phenomenon of a melancholic experience at the turn of the millennium Archaeology and Memory seeks to examine the diversity of mnemonic systems and their significance in different past contexts as well as the epistemological and ontological importance of archaeological practice and narratives in constituting the human historical condition The twelve substantial contributions in this volume cover a diverse set of regional examples and focus on a range of prehistoric and classical case studies in Eurasian regional contexts as well as on the predicaments of memory in examples of the archaeologies of contemporary past From the Mesolithic and Neolithic burial chambers to the trenches of World War I and the role of materiality in international criminal courts a number of contributors examine how people in the past have thought about their own pasts while others reflect on our own present day sensibilities in dealing with the material testimonies of recent history Both kinds of papers offer wider theoretical reflections on materiality archaeological methodologies and the ethical responsibilities of archaeological narration about the past

Handbook of Landscape Archaeology Bruno David, Julian Thomas, 2016-06-03 Over the past three decades landscape has become an umbrella term to describe many different strands of archaeology From the processualist study of settlement patterns to the phenomenologist s experience of the natural world from human impact on past environments to the environment s impact on human thought action and interaction the term has been used In this volume for the first time over 80 archaeologists from three continents attempt a comprehensive definition of the ideas and practices of landscape archaeology covering the theoretical and the practical the research and conservation and encasing the term in a global framework As a basic reference volume for landscape archaeology this volume will be the benchmark for decades to come All royalties on this Handbook are donated to the World Archaeological Congress

Archaeologies of the Greek Past Susan E. Alcock, 2002-08-15 Social memory the shared remembrances of group experience creates shared identity and provides people with both an image of their past and a design for their future But how are we to conceive the memories of past peoples such as for example the ancient Greeks This 2002 book makes a strong case for the use of archaeology particularly the evidence of landscape and of monuments to trace patterns in commemoration and forgetfulness Three detailed case studies early Roman Greece Hellenistic and Roman Crete and Messenia in Archaic to Hellenistic times focus on societies undergoing different types of social transformation Material evidence allows us to observe how groups responded to these challenges and how they made different uses of the past in the past

Excavating Memory Maria Theresia Starzmann, John R. Roby, 2016-02-25 In this compelling study Maria Theresia Starzmann and John Roby bring together an international cast of experts who move beyond the traditional framework of the constructed past to look at not only how the past is remembered but also who remembers it They convincingly argue that memory is a complex process shaped by remembering and forgetting inscription and erasure presence and absence Collective memory influences which stories are told over others ultimately shaping narratives about identity family and culture This interdisciplinary volume melding anthropology archaeology sociology history philosophy literature and archival studies explores such diverse arenas as archaeological objects human remains colonial landscapes public protests national memorials art installations testimonies and even digital space as places of memory Examining important sites of memory including the Victory Memorial to Soviet Army Blair Mountain Spanish penitentiaries African shrines and the U S Mexico borderlands the contributors highlight the myriad ways communities reinforce or reinterpret their pasts

Places of Memory: Spatialised Practices of Remembrance from Prehistory to Today Christian Horn, Gustav Wollentz, Gianpiero Di Maida, Annette Haug, 2020-09-24 This book examines spatialised practices of remembrance and its role in reshaping societies from prehistory to today it presents a reflection on the creation of memories through the organisation and use of landscapes and spaces that explicitly considers the multiplicity of meanings of the past Early Medieval Mortuary Practices Sarah Semple, Howard Williams, 2007 Incorporating studies focusing upon Anglo Saxon England as well as research encompassing western Britain Continental Europe and Scandinavia this volume originated as the proceedings of a two day conference held at the University of Exeter in February 2004 Convivium, 2004 Churches in Early Medieval Ireland Tomás Ó Carragáin, 2010 This is the first book devoted to churches in Ireland dating from the arrival of Christianity in the fifth century to the early stages of the Romanesque around 1100 including those built to house treasures of the golden age of Irish art such as the Book of Kells and the Ardagh chalice Carragáin's comprehensive survey of the surviving examples forms the basis for a far reaching analysis of why these buildings looked as they did and what they meant in the context of early Irish society Carragáin also identifies a clear political and ideological context for the first Romanesque churches in Ireland and shows that to a considerable extent the Irish Romanesque represents the perpetuation of a long established architectural tradition

Rock Art and Memory in the Transmission of Cultural Knowledge Leslie F. Zubieta, 2022-07-07 This book shares timely and thought provoking methodological and theoretical approaches from perspectives concerning landscape gender cognition neural networks material culture and ontology in order to comprehend rock art's role in memorisation processes collective memory and the intergenerational circulation of knowledge The case studies offered here stem from human experiences from around the globe Africa Australia Europe North and South America which reflects the authors diverse interpretative stances While some of the approaches deal with mnemonics new digital technologies and statistical analysis others examine performances sensory engagement language and political disputes giving the reader a comprehensive view of the myriad connections between memory studies and rock art Indigenous interlocutors participate as collaborators and authors creating space for Indigenous narratives of memory These narratives merge with Western versions of past and recent memories in order to construct jointly novel inter epistemic understandings of images made on rock Each chapter demonstrates the commitment of rock art studies to strengthen and enrich the field by exploring how communities and cultures across time have perceived and entangled rock images with a broad range of material culture nonhumans people emotions performances sounds and narratives Such relations are pivotal to understanding the universe behind the intersections of memory and rock art and to generating future interdisciplinary collaborative studies Visualising Place, Memory and the Imagined

Sarah De Nardi, 2019-11-11 This book probes into how communities and social groups construct their understanding of the world through real and imagined experiences of place The book seeks to connect the dots of the factual and the imaginary that form affective networks of identities which help shape local memory and sense of self and community as well as a sense of the past It exploits the concept of make believe spaces in the environment storytelling and mnemonic narratives as a social framework that aligns and informs the everyday memory worlds of communities Drawing upon fieldwork in cultural heritage community archaeology social history and conflict history and anthropology this text offers a methodological framework within which social groups may position and enact the multiple senses of place and senses of the past inhabited and performed in different cultural contexts This book serves to illustrate a useful visualisation methodology which can be used in participatory fieldwork and thus will be of interest to heritage specialists ethnographers and cultural geographers and oral history practitioners who will particularly find the methodology cheap easy to replicate and enjoyable for community based projects

Social Memory in 4th-century Athenian Public Discourse Bernd K. Steinbock,2005 Actes Du Neuvième Congrès International Des Égyptologues Jean Claude Goyon,Christine Cardin,2007 Manipulation of Memory Diana Yi-Man Ng,2007 An Architecture of Remembering and Forgetting Esther Suzuki Arnold,2004 Landscape and Identity Kurt D. Springs,2015 The Chalcolithic wedge tombs of Ireland represent a dramatic re emergence of megalithism over a millennium after most Neolithic megaliths were built and many centuries after most had gone out of use This resurgence of building monuments associated with the dead may well have been associated with a period of social instability caused by the expansion of exchange networks and associated with the introduction of metallurgy Regional group and individual identities all seem to have undergone change at this time probably in a dynamic demographic context Variations in the distribution and scale of wedge tombs in Co Clare on the west coast of Ireland provide an interesting study that may reveal a pattern of clan affiliations status competition and enduring links to an important and ancient locale
