civilizations through their material productions Olivier challenges this view with a new approach to archaeological remains based on the works of French theorists such as Foucault de Certeaux and Derrida with insight from Darwin and Freud His thesis is that archaeology does not study the past itself but rather what materially remains of the past in our present Olivier also develops an interpretation of material culture based on Aby Warburg's and Walter Benjamin's work in the anthropology of art With wider implications for history and all social sciences The Dark Abyss of Time is a major contribution to the theory of time memory heritage and archaeology This flawless translation makes Olivier's elegantly written work available in English for the first time techniques as well as a range of suggested strategies to mitigate the impact of the techniques outlined The information on construction types and impacts is supported by an annotated literature review case studies a series of technical appendices of engineering processes and a data base of mitigation preservation in situ case studies collected from the British archaeological community Proceedings of the Prehistoric Society Prehistoric Society (London, England),1981
