

Chapter 5 – Elasticity and Its Applications

Do they depend both on the numbers of hours worked?

- What is elasticity? What kinds of numbers can elasticity take? Is it unitless?
- What is the price elasticity of demand? How is it related to the demand curve? How is it related to demand's steepness?
- What is the price elasticity of supply? How is it related to the supply curve?
- What are the income and cross-price elasticities of demand?

Do they?

Do they depend both on the numbers of hours worked?

Do they depend both on the numbers of hours worked and on the numbers of hours worked?

Do they depend both on the numbers of hours worked and on the numbers of hours worked, and on the opportunity cost of your time, and on the timing of your work (week or 24/7)?

Do they depend both on the numbers of hours worked and on the numbers of hours worked, and on the timing of your work, and on the timing of your work? Do they depend both on the numbers of hours worked and on the numbers of hours worked?

Do they?

- What does elasticity measure? How does it change? What are the units of elasticity? How is it related to the demand curve? How is it related to demand's steepness? How is it related to demand's steepness? How is it related to demand's steepness?
- Definition: Elasticity is a numerical measure of the responsiveness of Q^D or Q^S to a change in P .

Price Elasticity of Demand

- Price elasticity of demand measures how much Q^D responds to a change in P .
- It measures the price sensitivity of buyers' demand.

$$\text{Price elasticity of demand} = \frac{\text{Percentage change in } Q^D}{\text{Percentage change in } P}$$

Along a demand curve, P and Q move in opposite directions, which usually makes price elasticity negative. We will drop the minus sign and report absolute values for positive numbers.

Example:

The price elasticity of demand is -2.0. This means that a 1% change in price causes a 2% change in quantity demanded.

Calculating Percentage Changes

Price falls from $10 to $9, a change of -10%.

Quantity falls

from 100 to 80, a change of -20%.
