When we make decisions and experience things, we often describe them as being our own, "ours." However, when we think about why we made those decisions and why we experience things we come to realize that we are influenced by society to make decisions for us. There are many external societal factors that influence our beliefs and values which in turn affect how and why we make decisions. My family, friends, and society in general have heavily influenced the way I have lived my life and the person that I am today. I was birthed into this world on January 24, 2002 in the city of San Jose, California, eyes wide open, ready to be shaped and molded into the individual that society wanted me to become. Immediately I was given the ascribed status of a girl. A quick glance was all it took to confirm what then became my gender and that was that. With this social label my parents, in result, treated me according to society's view of how a girl should be treated. This included pink and purple everything, dolls and dollhouses. It wasn't until I got a little older and would play with my cousins that that stereotype began to change. I grew up surrounded by a lot of family mainly because my culture is very family-oriented, but also because my family was so large in number. Most of my first cousins, especially those close to my age, were male. Because many of my cousins who I played with as a child were male, I started to participate in more "boy" activities. For example, playing in the dirt and mud, playing basketball, and playing video games. I do not recall my parents or family ever saying anything about me participating in these activities however, I do remember an occurrence when I was in kindergarten in art class. The art teacher had assigned us an art project where we were to paint a picture for our dads for Father's Day. I decided to paint flowers for my dad because at the time he liked to garden and had all kinds of vegetables and flowers growing in our backyard. When I had told the art teacher what I was going to paint she told me to paint something else, like a car. At the time I didn't understand why I couldn't paint flowers for my dad when I knew that he would like it, but that didn't matter because flowers are "girly" and not meant for boys. This was just the first of my experiences with society's gender roles. I am the youngest and only girl out of three other siblings. However, they are all half-siblings. I have two older brothers from my father and one older brother from my mother. Because of this, and because of the large age gap between my brothers and I, I never experienced that close sibling relationship with them. Being not only the youngest, but also the only girl had a huge influence on who I am today. My dad had only ever had sons, so he, in a way, treated me...

the National Jewish Book Award for Biography and Autobiography This is the story of the making of a world famous sociologist It is even more the story of a boy hustling to survive Here in an astonishing and candidly written memoir by one of America s premier social scientists recounting the intensely personal story of his tormented youth in a ghetto within a ghetto It etches the painful details of a boy s overcoming alienation and isolation in a hostile place in an unloving family In the 1930s a small remnant community of Eastern European Jewish immigrants still resided in predominantly black Harlem As shopkeepers trying to make out a marginal existence Harlem s Jews were a minority within a minority Into this restricted world the author of this book was born Irving Louis Horowitz s parents had fled Russia his father the victim of persecution in the Tsarist army during World War I The boy s schoolmates were the children of black sharecroppers who had immigrated to the North Poverty language and culture all cut off the Horowitz family from traditional community life and the stress of a survival existence led to the trauma of a deteriorating family unit Harlem and its environs the Apollo and the Alhambra theaters the Polo Grounds and Central Park were the stage on which a youngster from this ghetto built a kind of self reliance at the cost of social graces The recipient of the National Jewish Book Award for Biography and Autobiography this new augmented edition contains the author s reflection of the impact of the Great Depression on Harlem family life
