Barr, 1998 This provocative new book invites us to forget all we have heard about the meaning of the Book of Revelation Instead David Barr shows us ways to give this familiar text a fresh new reading If we can think of the right questions to ask the text and listen without prejudice there are new things we can learn The questions David Barr asks the Book of Revelation are about stories how they are told whom they are about what they consist of where they go His commentary written with little technical vocabulary provides the knowledge and detail needed to make a fresh reading of the story ourselves

Cattle Bring Us to Our Enemies J. Terrence McCabe,2004-11-23 Based on 16 years of fieldwork among the pastoral Turkana people McCabe examines how individuals use the land and make decisions about mobility livestock and the use of natural resources in an environment characterized by aridity unpredictability insecurity and violence The Academy and Literature ,1891 Greed and Grievance Matthew G Allen,2013-09-30 This work offers important new perspectives on the violence and unrest that gripped Solomon Islands between late 1998 and mid 2003 a period known as the Ethnic Tension Based on in depth interviews and documents associated with the Tension Trials it is the first detailed account of the conflict that engages directly with the voices of the men who joined the rival militant groups These contemporary voices are presented against the backdrop of the socioeconomic and cultural history of Solomon Islands The findings provide a refreshing corrective to the pervasive framing of the Isatabu uprising and the Malaitan response as essentially criminal and apolitical activities driven by the self interest of those who participated in them Alternative motives for the men who participated in the Solomons conflict are elucidated foremost of which are their own conceptions of history and of the places of their respective peoples in the historical processes of colonization development and nation building Uneven development relative deprivation and rapid socioeconomic and cultural change are highlighted as salient structural causes of the unrest

When States Kill Cecilia Menjívar,Néstor Rodríguez,2005-07 Since the early twentieth century technological transfers from the United States to Latin American countries have involved technologies of violence for social control As the chapters in this book illustrate these technological transfers have taken various forms including the training of Latin American military personnel in surveillance and torture and the provision of political and logistic support for campaigns of state terror The human cost for Latin America has been enormous thousands of Latin Americans have been murdered disappeared or tortured and whole communities have been terrorized into silence Organized by region the essays in this book address the topic of state sponsored terrorism in a variety of ways Most take the perspective that state directed political violence is a modern development of a regional political structure in which U S political interests weigh heavily Others acknowledge that Latin American states enthusiastically received U S support for their campaigns of terror A few see local culture and history as key factors in the implementation of state campaigns of political violence Together all the essays exemplify how technologies of terror have been transferred among various Latin American countries with particular attention to the role that the United States as a strong state has played in such transfers The Politics of Melancholic Reason Bettina Prato,2006 The Editor ,1915 Pounders of Grain Kathleen E. Sheldon,2002 This history of women in Mozambique moves from a description of various mid 19th century rural societies to an examination of the impact of structural adjustment and processes of democratization at the end of the 20th century A discussion of matrilineal and patrilineal kinship systems introduces the history and includes women s contributions to the social and economic lives of their communities The experiences of women in Portuguese colonialism are then explored with a focus on changes to the work environment and the advent of mission education Women s involvement in the struggle for liberation and independence is highlighted by specific policies that improved women s lives Examinations of the 1980s and 1990s follow including a look at the devastating war with Renamo and a consideration of the legacy of structural adjustment programs on women s work and politics This book is inclusive of all regions in Mozambique and emphasizes the centrality of women s choices and decisions in the development of Mozambican society Sheldon demonstrates that without the inclusion of women the history of Mozambique remains incomplete This is the only history to date of women in Mozambique and one of the few country specific histories of women in Africa
