Dynamics Of The Language Classroom:

The Dynamics of the Language Classroom Ian Tudor,2001 The Dynamics of the Language Classroom Ian Tudor,2001
Group dynamics in the language classroom Zoltan Dörnyei,Tim Murphey,2003 Understanding the Dynamics of Classroom Communication Sungbae Ko,2013-02-22 Conversational participants in the classroom are not ordinary conversationalists but conversationalists in a pedagogical multiparty community A different speech exchange system may produce different problems and different opportunities of sequential organisation when we shift our attention from ordinary conversation to a different speech exchange system Understanding the Dynamics of Classroom Communication provides much needed descriptions of communication within language classrooms which acknowledge the importance of what teachers and students bring to the class environment as well as what actually occurs during face to face communication within the classroom Using authentic naturally occurring data this book offers new insights into the sequencing of patterns of interaction that occur between individuals engaged in dynamic co participation beyond the properties of individual learner language In the final chapter some implications for Second Language Acquisition are also discussed Opening Dialogue Martin Nystrand,1997 Opening Dialogue examines the effects of classroom discourse on learning in 8th and 9th grade literature classes with broad implications for all grade levels and subjects Dozens of schools and thousands of students participated in this study the largest in the field Contents Dialogic Instruction When Recitation Becomes Conversation The Big Picture Language and Learning in Hundreds of English Lessons A Closer Look at Authentic Interaction Profiles of Student Teacher Talk in Two Classrooms What s a Teacher to Do Classroom Dynamics Jill Hadfield,2013-07-15 This very popular series gives teachers practical advice and guidance together with resource ideas and materials for the classroom

Motivational Dynamics in Language Learning Zoltán Dörnyei,Peter D. MacIntyre,Alastair Henry,2014-10-14 This landmark volume offers a collection of conceptual papers and empirical research studies that investigate the dynamics of language learning motivation from a complex dynamic systems perspective The contributors include some of the most well established scholars from three continents all addressing the question of how we can understand motivation if we perceive it as continuously changing and evolving rather than as a fixed learner trait The data based studies also provide useful research models and templates for graduate students and scholars in the fields of applied linguistics and SLA who are interested in engaging with the intriguing area of examining language learning in a dynamic vein Interpersonal Dynamics in Second Language Education Madeline E. Ehrman,Zoltan Dornyei,1998-08-04 Until now relatively little research on interpersonal processes and group dynamics addressed the educational domain particularly second language education This book fills the gap by synthesizing diverse aspects of interpersonal and group psychology and exploring conscious and unconscious processes that affect learning and teaching Drawing on humanistic social and clinical psychology it addresses unconscious communication among people group development class climate psychological characteristics of effective classroom groups leadership roles interpersonal attraction and conflicts and the relationship of these to learner autonomy and collaborative learning The authors examine the contributions of the mental health branches of counseling and clinical psychology to our understanding of how teachers learners and a variety of figures who many never enter the classroom interact with each other to make second language learning more or less effective In particular the authors show how the unconscious scripts can cause unproductive conflict demotivation and eventual aversion to language learning Moreover the text shows how learning can be facilitated by appropriate use of interpersonal dynamics Due to its interdisciplinary nature this book will be of interest to teacher educators and practicing teachers researchers undergraduate and graduate students school administrators and supervisors of educational programs and many learners themselves In addition since the main focus of the book is the affective foundation of the teaching learning process this material will be relevant to non language teachers and clinical practitioners interested in educational issues as well as graduate students in training for those professions

The Invisible Foreign Language Classroom Laura Dabbs, Betty Lou Leaver, 2019-09 An in depth guide for teachers seeking to understand dysfunctional classrooms and create a mathemagenic experience A unique resource based on experience with thousands of language learners Based on Jungian psychology using MBTI categories with a passing reference to equivalents in Socionics this book presents an explanation behind dysfunctional language classrooms though much could apply to any K 16 classroom and provides a heuristic for managing the classroom successfully For each MBTI type there is a section posing a teacher of that type and a classroom of randomly gathered types as in real life A discussion follows as to the source of any dysfunction the way to accommodate all learners an exploration of the probable comfort level of that teacher and a posed question as to what would be the case if the class were the same but the teacher the polar opposite Meant for application by teachers and for use in faculty development it is a book that takes readers through the analytic process to arrive at their own heuristic in approaching their classrooms Real life examples are provided for many of the personality types

Group Dynamics Kolosa Esztella, 2002

Student Engagement in the Language Classroom Phil Hiver, Ali H. Al-Hoorie, Sarah Mercer, 2020-12-02 This book defines engagement for the field of language learning and contextualizes it within existing work on the psychology of language learning and teaching Chapters address broad substantive questions concerned with what engagement is or looks like and how it can be theorized for the language classroom methodological questions related to the design measurement and analysis of engagement in language classrooms and beyond as well as applied issues examining its antecedents factors inhibiting and enhancing it and conditions fostering the re engagement of language learners who have become disengaged Through a mix of conceptual and empirical chapters the book explores similarities and differences between motivation and engagement and addresses questions of whether how and why learners actually do exert effort allocate attention participate and become involved in tangible language learning and use It will serve as an authoritative benchmark for future theoretical and empirical research into engagement within the classroom and beyond and will be of interest to anyone wishing to understand the unique insights and contributions the topic of engagement can make to language learning and teaching

Language anxiety and classroom dynamics Anna Turula,2006 Visualising the Dynamics of Learner Interaction Juurd Hjalmar Stelma,2003 Visulising the Dynamics of Learner Interaction Juurd Hjalmar Stelma,University of Leeds,2003 Language Acquisition and Development Brian Tomlinson,2007 Examines language acquisition and development across a wide range of languages and contexts

The Palgrave Handbook of Motivation for Language Learning Martin Lamb,Kata Csizér,Alastair Henry,Stephen Ryan,2020-01-11 This handbook offers an authoritative one stop reference work for the dynamic and expanding field of language learning motivation The 32 chapters have been specially commissioned from the field s most influential researchers and writers Together they present a compelling picture of the motivations people have for learning languages the diverse ways we can research motivation and the implications for promoting and sustaining learners motivation The first section outlines the main theoretical approaches to language learning motivation the next section presents ways in which motivation theory has been applied in practice the third section showcases examples of motivation research in particular contexts and with particular types of language learners and the final section describes the exciting directions that contemporary research is taking promising important new insights for academics and practitioners alike

Group Dynamics Németh Boglárka,1998 Australian Review of Applied Linguistics ,2004 Secondary Education Issues and Challenges Hans V. Knudsen,2008 Secondary education is the final stage of compulsory education preceded by primary education and followed by higher education It is characterised by transition from the typically compulsory comprehensive primary education for minors to the optional selective tertiary post secondary or higher education e g university vocational school for adults Depending on the system schools for this period or a part of it may be called secondary schools high schools gymnasiums lyceums middle schools colleges vocational schools and preparatory schools and the exact meaning of any of these varies between the systems The exact boundary between primary and secondary education varies from country to country and even within them but is generally around the fifth to the tenth year of education Secondary education occurs mainly during the teenage years In the United States and Canada primary and secondary education together are sometimes referred to as K 12 education The purpose of secondary education can be to give common knowledge to prepare for either higher education or vocational education or to train directly for a profession This new book presents the latest research in the field

Physical Language Learning Spaces in the Digital Age Felix A. Kronenberg,2024-02-08 How do we intentionally design physical environments for language learning and teaching How can we build spaces that are inclusive accessible safe and equitable While the Covid 19 pandemic has advanced notions of online education it has also revealed the benefits and affordances of human to human interaction in physical learning spaces This book explores the design of physical spaces intended for language learning specifically From residential learning spaces to active classrooms from social and experiential spaces to zoom rooms and language centers from mobile community based learning to hybrid makerspaces language learners and educators have more choices than ever regarding their possible learning environments Changing pedagogies and new technologies provide ever more alternatives to the normalized technology of the classroom With a focus on creating new awareness of the affordances and benefits of physical spaces as active agents in the language learning and teaching processes this book takes a practical approach to introduce readers without any prior knowledge of design or architecture to the topic As language learning spaces need to consider stakeholders from diverse cultures Felix Kronenberg provides examples from language centers around the world including Asia Europe and the United States Readers will learn how to conceptualize and create supportive resilient flexible inclusive accessible affordable sustainable and safe physical learning spaces The book is an interdisciplinary introduction to this emerging field drawing from research in disciplines such as architecture learning spaces design second language acquisition pedagogy history and sociology
