Abelard And Heloise A Mediaeval Romance With The Letters Of Heloise Peter Abelard HELoise Abby Sage Richardson Joseph Berlinger Houghton Mifflin 1883 Literary Criticism Children s Literature Literary Criticism Children s Literature Philosophy Reference Letters of Abelard and Heloise Peter Abelard,2020-05-13 Peter Abelard was born in the village of Palais in Britany He lived in the twelfth century in the reigns of Louis the Gross and Louis the Young His Father s name was Beranger a gentleman of a considerable and wealthy family He took care to give his children a liberal and pious education especially his eldest son Peter on whom he endeavoured to bestow all possible improvements because there appeared in him an extraordinary vivacity of wit joined with sweetness of temper and all imaginable presages of a great man When he had made some advancement in learning he grew so fond of his books that lest affairs of the world might interrupt his proficiency in them he quitted his birthright to his younger brothers and applied himself entirely to the studies of Philosophy and Divinity Of all the sciences to which he applied himself that which pleased him most and in which he made the greatest progress was Logick He had a very subtile wit and was incessantly whetting it by disputes out of a restless ambition to be master of his weapons So that in a short time he gained the reputation of the greatest philosopher of his age and has always been esteemed the founder of what we call the Learning of the Schoolmen He finished his studies at Paris where learning was then in a flourishing condition In this city he found that famous professor of philosophy William des Champeaux and soon became his favourite scholar but this did not last long The professor was so hard put to it to answer the subtle objections of his new scholar that he grew uneasy with him The school soon run into parties The senior scholars transported with envy against

Abelard seconded their master's resentment. All this served only to increase the young man's presumption who now thought himself sufficiently qualified to set up a school of his own. For this purpose he chose an advantageous place which was the town of Melun, ten leagues from Paris where the French court resided at that time. Champeaux did all that he could to hinder the erecting of this school but some of the great courtiers being his enemies the opposition he made to it only promoted the design of his rival.

Heloise & Abelard James Burge, Jim Burge, 2004

Abelard was a brilliant philosopher in Paris. Heloise his student, 15 years his junior, was a poet already famous for her learning, a woman with a uniquely powerful insight into her own feelings. The letters they wrote to each other, some of which have only recently come to light, open a miraculous window onto the story of their affair. We know about their terms of endearment, about the passion of their lovemaking, of stolen moments in churches, of their erotic play. The letters tell the story of the birth of their child, of their secret marriage and the violence and tragedy which followed, culminating in a brutal attack in which Abelard was castrated. In panic and shame the couple separated to continue their lives and very successful careers in monasteries. But their love continued through their letters.
