Abortion Papers Ireland:

The Abortion Papers, Ireland Ailbhe Smyth, 1992 In these essays Irish feminist scholars and activists explore the politics of abortion in one of the most profoundly Catholic and traditional countries in Europe Writing from a wide range of historical and contemporary perspectives the authors consider the social ethical and political dimensions of the abortion debate and its implications for women s freedom and life choices Excerpt

The Abortion Papers Ireland, Volume 2 Aileen Quilty, 2015 The Abortion Papers is a unique edited collection that provides key reflections and scholarship on the Irish abortion regime generated in the period between the 1992 X case the death of Savita Halappanavar in 2012 and the subsequent introduction in 2013 of limited abortion legislation The ideas generated in the volume come from the different but complementary perspectives of activism and scholarship The collection includes the voices of Irish women who have had abortions something largely absent within Ireland s abortion debate Taken as a whole the volume offers new conceptual and theoretical insights into the abortion debate by providing an original perspective on the Ireland s abortion regime The collection is intended to offer a valuable resource for those currently advancing legal and social change in order to offer women living in Ireland North and South access to abortion on the island of Ireland For those interested in the abortion debate more broadly it will offer a unique overview of the debate in both a national and international context

Abortion Papers Ireland Aileen Quilty, Catherine Conlon, 2015 The Abortion Papers Ireland Volume 2 is a unique edited collection that provides key reflections and scholarship from feminist academics and activists on Ireland s abortion regime this collection was prompted by the death of Savita Halappanavar in an Irish hospital after being repeatedly denied a life saving abortion in 2012 the broad ranging and rich contributions reflect the period between the 1992 X Case judgement and the eventual introduction in 2013 of highly restrictive abortion legislation Whilst a case study of Ireland the perspectives and analysis contained provide important insights and learning for broader international reproductive justice debates and scholarship

Politics and Gender in Ireland Fiona Buckley, Yvonne Galligan, 2016-02-08 This book explores the relationship between women the state and democratic politics in Ireland today It highlights the conservatism of the political culture shared by all traditions on the island and how this culture circumscribes women s political agency in Northern Ireland and Ireland The book explores the opportunities and obstacles to women s participation and representation on each side of the border The chapters take the view that public decision making institutions and processes are subject to rules and practices that reinforce the gendered foundations of democratic politics They document women s continuing quest for full participation and equal representation in these male gendered arenas The contributors focus on the marginalised experiences of women in modern politics in Ireland and detail their efforts to challenge the masculinized status quo The book addresses the classical issues of citizenship participation representation and equal rights in a sustained analysis of the political systems on the island It also deals with modern issues multiculturalism peace building the male gendered legislature and the unequal nature of women's citizenship in constitutional, institutional and policy contexts. The book is completed by a comprehensive appendix of all women elected to political office on the island from 1918-2013. This book was published as a special issue of Irish Political Studies. ReValuing Care in Theory, Law and Policy Rosie Harding, Ruth Fletcher, Chris Beasley, 2016-11-10. Care is central to life and yet is all too often undervalued, taken for granted and hidden from view. This collection of fourteen substantive and highly innovative essays, along with its insightful introduction, seeks to explore the different dimensions of care that shape social, legal and political contexts. It addresses these dimensions in four key ways. First, the contributions expand contemporary theoretical understandings of the value of care by reflecting upon established conceptual approaches such as the ethics of care and developing new ways of using and understanding this concept. Second, the chapters draw on a wide range of methods from doctrinal scholarship through ethnographic, empirical and biographical research methodologies. Third, the book enlarges the usual subjects of care research by expanding its analysis beyond the more typical focus on familial interconnection to include professional care contexts, care by strangers and care for and about animals. Finally, the collection draws on contributions from academics working in Europe and Australia across law, anthropology, gender studies, politics, psychology and sociology. By highlighting the points of connection and tension between these diverse international and disciplinary perspectives, this book outlines a new and nuanced approach to care, exploring contemporary understandings of care across law, the social sciences and humanities. Ireland's Women Katie Donovan, 1995. The women who appear in these pages are both well known and unknown, real and invented. They include, for instance, the fiery Elizabeth Fitzgerald who defended her castle so successfully and Granuaile the pirate queen from Galway.

Travellin Mama Mothers, Mothering and Travel Charlotte Beyer, 2019-03-01. Don't women with children travel? Marybeth Bond and Pamela Michael enquire in their book A Mother's World: Journeys of the Heart (1998) when discovering the absence of portrayals of travelling mothers. Addressing this absence, our book Travellin Mama Mothers: Mothering and Travel explores the multiple dimensions of motherhood and travel. Through a variety of compelling creative pieces and critical essays with a global outlook and wide-ranging historical, cultural and national perspectives, Travellin Mama Mothers: Mothering and Travel examines the vital contributions made to travel writing and representations of travel by mothers. Autoethnographical approaches inform many of the pieces in this book, illustrating the significance of the personal and writing the self in re-imagining our cultural narratives and representations of travel and the mothers who undertake it. This book is about mothers who travel for mothers who travel with their children and all those readers who have travelled in any capacity, with or without family. Emerging Voices Pat O'Connor, 1998. Asian Cities in an Era of Decentralisation Michelle Ann Miller, Tim Bunnell, 2016-03-16. This book critically engages with the idea of decentralization as empowering cities and their residents to act innovatively and creatively. The contributions thus highlight how the term empowerment in the context of decentralization regimes masks a competing array of intentions and agendas. Who and what are empowered?

given a voice and allowed to participate via the processes and structures of decentralization and to what ends are too frequently assumed in normative conversations about bringing government closer to the people and community driven development Creating an illusion of a shared language and common set of priorities therefore obscures more complex realities particularly when there is a disconnect between the official goals of decentralization and civil society aspirations that reinforces politics of exclusion at the grassroots Equally official processes of decentralization can and often are accompanied by less visible processes of recentralization through the reassertion of central state control over putatively autonomous jurisdictions Through studies in six Asian countries India the Philippines Indonesia Bangladesh Thailand and Japan the essays in this book examine cases whereby a range of urban actors and institutions have been empowered via decentralization and how this realignment of local power relations impacts upon the dynamics of urban governance albeit not always in socially progressive ways This book was published as a special issue of Space and Polity

Asian Cities in an Era of Decentralisation Fiona Buckley, Yvonne Galligan, 2016-02-08 This book explores the relationship between women the state and democratic politics in Ireland today It highlights the conservatism of the political culture shared by all traditions on the island and how this culture circumscribes women s political agency in Northern Ireland and Ireland The book explores the opportunities and obstacles to women s participation and representation on each side of the border The chapters take the view that public decision making institutions and processes are subject to rules and practices that reinforce the gendered foundations of democratic politics They document women s continuing quest for full participation and equal representation in these male gendered arenas The contributors focus on the marginalised experiences of women in modern politics in Ireland and detail their efforts to challenge the masculinized status quo The book addresses the classical issues of citizenship participation representation and equal rights in a sustained analysis of the political systems on the island It also deals with modern issues multiculturalism peace building the male gendered legislature and the unequal nature of women s citizenship in constitutional institutional and policy contexts The book is completed by a comprehensive appendix of all women elected to political office on the island from 1918 2013 This book was published as a special issue of Irish Political Studies
