Death and Identity Robert Fulton, 1993-12-01 Death and Identity Robert Fulton, 1965 Death and Identity Michel de M'Uzan, 2013 Beyond the Body Elizabeth Hallam, Jenny Hockey, Glennys Howarth, 2005-08-16 Beyond the Body presents a new and sophisticated approach to death dying and bereavement and the sociology of the body The authors challenge existing theories that put the body at the centre of identity They go beyond the body to highlight the persistence of self identity even when the body itself has been disposed of or is missing Chapters draw together a wide range of empirical data including cross cultural case studies and fieldwork to examine both the management of the corpse and the construction of the soul or spirit by focusing on the work of undertakers embalmers coroners clergy clairvoyants exorcists bereavement counsellors

Emotion, Identity, and Death Douglas James Davies, Chang-Won Park, 2012 Death, Identity, and the Social Network Jed Richards Brubaker, 2015 What happens to our accounts data and digital identities after we die Over 550 000 US Facebook users will die in 2015 but their deaths will not necessarily result in the elimination of their accounts or their place inside a network of friends This leaves friends and families with both the opportunity and challenge of incorporating digital identities into their practices of grief and mourning Meanwhile post mortem digital identities require designers and administrators to address the ongoing use and maintenance of post mortem data In this dissertation I present findings from mixed methods research on digital afterlives I identify how people interact with profiles after the account holder s death describe post mortem social networking practices articulate the multiple and conflicting needs of survivors and present design research addressing the management of post mortem digital identities Framed within the larger scholarship on digital identity I argue that digital identities are the byproduct of social performances that have been delegated into a technical system such that the system can re present these performances Through the study of post mortem digital identities I demonstrate ways that digital identities stand in as the deceased in both the social practices of friends and family and the technical functionality of social network sites abstract
