Death Is The Mother Of Beauty:

Death is the Mother of Beauty Mark Turner, 2000 Death is the Mother of Beauty Mark Turner, 2000 Early Stevens Bobby Joe Leggett, 1992 In recent years Nietzsche has emerged as a presiding genius of our intellectual epoch Although scholars have noted the influence of Nietzsche's thought on Wallace Stevens the publication of Early Stevens establishes for the first time the extent to which Nietzsche pervades Stevens' early work Concentrating on poems published between 1915 and 1935 but moving occasionally into later poems as well as letters and essays B J Leggett draws together texts of Stevens and Nietzsche to produce new and surprising readings of the poet's early work For instance Peter Quince at the Clavier is read in the light of Nietzsche's discussion of Apollonian and Dionysian art in The Birth of Tragedy Stevens' early poems on religion including principally Sunday Morning are seen through the perspective of Nietzsche's doctrines of the transvaluation of values genealogy and the innocence of becoming Stevens' notions of femininity virility and poetry are examined in relation to Nietzsche's texts on gender and creativity This intertextual critique reveals previously undisclosed ideologies operating at the margins of Stevens' work enabling Leggett to read aspects of the poetry that have until now been unreadable Early Stevens also considers such issues as Stevens' perspectivism his aphoristic style the Nietzschean epistemology of his poems of order and the implications of notions of art untruth fiction and interpretation in both Stevens and Nietzsche Though many critics have discussed the concept of intertextuality few have attempted a truly intertextual reading of a particular poet Early Stevens is an exemplary model of such a reading marking a significant advance in both the form and substance of our understanding of this quintessential modern poet The Case against Death Ingemar Patrick Linden, 2022-02-08 A philosopher refutes our culturally embedded acceptance of death arguing instead for the desirability of antiaging science and radical life extension Ingemar Patrick Linden's central claim is that death is evil In this first comprehensive refutation of the most common arguments in favor of human mortality he writes passionately in favor of antiaging science and radical life extension We may be on the cusp of a new human condition where scientists seek to break through the arbitrarily set age limit of human existence to address aging as an illness that can be cured The book however is not about the science and technology of life extension but whether we should want more life For Linden the answer is a loud and clear yes The acceptance of death is deeply embedded in our culture Linden examines the views of major philosophical voices of the past whom he calls death's ardent advocates These include the Buddha Socrates Plato Lucretius and Montaigne All have taught what he calls the Wise View namely that we should not fear death After setting out his case against death Linden systematically examines each of the accepted arguments for death that aging and death are natural that death is harmless that life is overrated that living longer would be boring and that death saves us from overpopulation He concludes with a dialogue concerning the badness of human mortality Though Linden acknowledges that The Case Against Death is a negative polemic he also defends it as optimistic in that the badness of death is a function of the goodness of life Death and the Displacement of Beauty: Foundations of violence Grace Jantzen, 2004 The pursuit and love of death has characterized Western culture since Homeric times Foundations of Violence enters the ancient world of Homer Plato and Aristotle to explore the genealogy of violence in Western thought It covers the origins of ideas of death the beautiful death of Homeric heroes through to the gendered misery of war Jantzen examines the tensions between those who tried to eliminate fear of death by denying its significance and those like Plotinus who looked to another world for life and beauty
