Dealing With The Behavioral And Psychological Problems Of Students:

Dealing with the Behavioral and Psychological Problems of Students: A Contemporary Update John H. Dunkle, 2010-01-19

This timely volume updates Dr Ursula Delworth's monograph introduced two decades ago on Assessment Intervention of Student Problems AISP Model in Dealing with the Behavioral and Psychological Problems of Students. It is intended to re-introduce the student affairs profession to her model which is as relevant and useful today as it was when it first appeared in the literature. Recent tragedies on the campuses of Virginia Tech and Northern Illinois University refocus attention on the use of campus intervention teams to manage students who struggle with serious mental health problems and are also disruptive or dangerous. Chapters in this volume demonstrate how Dr Delworth's AISP model can be helpful to student affairs professionals and administrators in a multitude of ways. It provides coordination and direction to efforts to aid students and to maintain an orderly and healthy environment on campus. Furthermore, it demystifies student psychological and behavioral problems for staff members who do not possess formal training in these areas. Finally, it provides a common language and a support system for staff members who are dealing with difficult student issues. This is the 128th volume of the Jossey Bass higher education quarterly report series New Directions for Student Services, an indispensable resource for vice presidents of student affairs, deans of students, student counselors, and other student services professionals. Each issue of New Directions for Student Services offers guidelines and programs for aiding students in their total development: emotional, social, physical, and intellectual.

Advancement Work in Student Affairs: The Challenges and Strategies Thomas E.

Miller, 2010-06-21

Readers are encouraged to consider fundraising an essential component of their future as student affairs professionals. Chapter topics discussed include: The context for development work in student affairs; Getting started in student affairs development; Student affairs and alumni relations; Fundraising for student affairs at comprehensive institutions; Entrepreneurialism in student affairs: the Eckerd College Waterfront Program story; More than an open door: deploying philanthropy to student access and success in American Community Colleges; Suggestions for the path ahead. Student affairs divisions need to find ways to support themselves and move toward self-reliance and self-determination. The most important aspect of student affairs practice will always be in the context of institutional frameworks and mission, and it will always be characterized as a collaborative partnership with others. However, the best of student affairs operations will at the same time be characterized as self-sufficient, carrying their own weight, a goal best accomplished through a commitment to development work and fundraising. This volume aims to help student affairs professionals realize that goal. This is the 130th volume of the Jossey Bass higher education quarterly report series New Directions for Student Services, an indispensable resource for vice presidents of student affairs, deans of students, student counselors, and other student services professionals. New Directions

Concluding chapters discuss overarching issues regarding the behavioral and mental health of adolescents, overcoming the stigma of mental illness, the research policy and practice context for the delivery of evidence-based treatments, and the development of a more robust agenda to advance adolescent health. Cognitive and Mental Health Improvement Under- and Post-COVID-19 - Volume II Gabriele Nibbio, Chong Chen, Yuka Kotozaki, 2025-04-07 This Research Topic is a part of a collection on the topic of Cognitive and Mental Health Improvement Under and Post COVID-19. An increasing body of research suggests that the COVID-19 pandemic has worsened global mental health and caused more cognitive impairments. Whereas the COVID-19 pandemic is still ongoing in some regions, it is expected to be ending for most regions in the very near future. From a psychological, psychiatric, and public mental health perspective, it is of vital importance to conduct effective and efficient interventions to promote cognitive and mental health for they not only are essential for us to cope with the ongoing pandemic but also necessary for us to rebuild a better world post the pandemic. Not to say that a healthy cognitive and mental health state is at the core of human wellbeing and deserves its own place. From previous studies and everyday practices, we already know that regular exercise, appropriate sleep, nutritious diet, close social ties, connection with nature, mindfulness, among others, help improve cognition and boost mental health. However, the optimal regimen for each specific cognitive and mental health outcome for a specific population including both those of healthy and clinical is unclear and remain to be identified Furthermore the underlying psychological physiological and neurobiological mechanisms through which each activity or intervention improves cognition and promotes mental health are to be clarified
