

DEATH OF AN ENGLISHMAN

It was a very inconvenient time for murder. Florence was full of Christmas shoppers and half the police force was already on holiday.

At first it seemed quite an ordinary murder. Of course, there are always a few mysteries. In this case, the dead man had been in the habit of moving his furniture at three o'clock in the morning. Naturally, the police wanted to know why. The case became more complicated, but all the time, the answer was right under their noses. They just couldn't see it. It was, after all, a very ordinary murder.

DEATH OF AN ENGLISHMAN

On a foggy December morning in Florence, an Englishman is found dead, shot in the back, in his apartment. So who shot him, and why? Who are the suspects, what are the clues? First, the police find a stolen antique in the Englishman's flat. Then a little girl from a flat above says that she heard two bangs in the night – but children are not always reliable witnesses. And then there is Miss White, who lives on the top floor and who also heard noises in the night . . .

Carabinieri Bacchi is training to be a police officer. He is serious, enthusiastic and very inexperienced. He thinks that the Captain, who is careful and correct, is the perfect police officer. Young Bacchi would learn more from the Marshal, who is not well-educated but who is wise and sympathetic, and notices small details. But the Marshal has flu and lies in bed, having feverish dreams . . .
