The Airline Business in the Twenty-first Century Rigas Doganis,2001-01-01 This book will be useful for those working in the airline industry and for students

The Airline Industry Alessandro Cento,2008-10-15 The debate on the future of the aviation sector and the viability of its traditional business practices is the core of this book The liberalization of the EU market in the 1990s has radically modified the competitive environment and the nature of airline competition Furthermore the new millennium began with terrorist attacks epidemics trade globalization and the rise of oil prices all of which combined to push the industry into a perfect storm Airline industry profitability has been an elusive goal for several decades and the recent events has only accentuated existing weaknesses The main concern of industry observers is whether the airline business model successful during the 1980s and 1990s is now sustainable in a market crowded by low cost carriers The airlines that will respond rapidly and determinedly to increase pressure to restructure consolidate and segment the industry will achieve competitive advantages In this context the present study aims to model the new conduct of the legacy carriers in a new liberalized European market in terms of network and pricing competition with low cost carriers and competitive reaction to the global economic crises

The Airline Business Rigas Doganis,2006 The second edition of Rigas Doganis book brings the airline industry story up to date exploring airline mergers and alliances price wars the impact of disasters and the future prospects for the industry as a whole

Airline Management Paul Stephen Dempsey,Laurence E. Gesell,2006 The Airline Industry in the 21st Century - Competition between Network Carriers and Low-Cost Carriers Christian Hammer,2006-10-05 Seminar paper from the year 2005 in the subject Business economics General grade 1.5 Vienna University of Economics and Business Dept of English Business Communication language English abstract External shocks such as terrorist attacks wars in Afghanistan and Iraq the SARS epidemic and the worldwide economic downturn have hit the aviation industry badly Many airlines have posted substantial losses Lindstedt and Fauser 2003 23 According to the chairman of Lufthansa's supervisory board Jürgen Weber Fliegen bis der Geier kommt 58 about half of the network airlines are de facto bankrupt Franke 2004 15 argues that the severe crisis of the global aviation industry has primarily struck the classical network carriers NCs with their complex hub-spoke operation platforms Low cost carriers

LCCs however were not hit by the downturn With their lean business models they offered a good alternative at a time when passengers began to look for ways to avoid paying the high prices NCs demanded Franke 2004 15 This paper analyses the competitive environment in the airline industry I shall briefly describe the different business models in the industry the LCC and the NC model I will then analyze the role airports play The main purpose however is to identify possible future scenarios in the industry

Air Transport in the 21st Century John F. O'Connell, George Williams, 2016-12-05 Airlines are buffeted by fluctuating political and economic landscapes ever changing competition technology developments globalization increasing deregulation and evolving customer requirements As a consequence all sectors of the air transport industry are in a constant state of flux The principle aim of this book is to review current trends in the airline industry and its related suppliers thereby providing an insight into the forces that are changing its dynamics The factors that are reshaping the structure of the industry are examined with a view to identifying the key issues whose impact will be critical in the future The book features two very distinct sections The first contains short contributions from industry executives at CEO VP level from airlines aircraft engine manufacturers safety and navigational provider organisations who have set out their take of where the airline industry is heading This commercial input sets the scene for the book and provides the bridge to the second section which is composed of 18 chapters written by distinguished academic authors Each chapter presents a valuable insight into a specific area of the air transport industry including airlines airports cargo deregulation the environment navigation strategy information technology security and tourism The shared objective of the authors is to describe and explain the core competencies that are determining the current shape of the industry and to examine the forces that will change its direction going forward The book is written in a management style and will appeal to all levels of personnel who work for airlines across the world It is also written for airport authorities aerospace manufacturers regulatory and government transportation agencies researchers and students of aviation management transport studies tourism and the wider air transport industry

21st Century Airlines Nawal K. Taneja, 2017-09-08 In 21st Century Airlines Connecting the Dots Nawal Taneja addresses the challenges and opportunities facing the airline industry as it tries to innovate and create products and services that are radically different by connecting the dots at four key levels recognizing the implications of global events improving cross functional collaboration within the organization working more closely with the travel chain and providing much higher engagements with connectors within the social networks The book synthesizes insights gained from the experience of non traditional businesses such as Uber that have no physical assets and that focus on scalability through platforms as well as traditional businesses such as Mercedes Benz that are transitioning from operators of physical assets to adapt to the on demand and sharing economies These insights show pragmatically that digitizing airline businesses would require digital mind sets digital technologies digital strategies and digital workplaces to explore new frontiers in value for both customers and airlines Moreover forward thinking airlines need to consider working with bimodal organizational structures in which one group optimizes current business models network fleet and schedule planning as well as revenue management while a second group explores innovative ways to add digital features to physical products to provide a consistent experience throughout the journey The book is written for all senior level practitioners of airlines and related businesses worldwide as well as senior level government policymakers Applying the 'No Frills' concept to other specific Airline Businesses Sven Brueninghaus,2004-04-05 Master s Thesis from the year 2004 in the subject Business economics Business Management Corporate Governance grade 1 7 A University of Applied Sciences Essen IOM Frankfurt language English abstract The No Frills Airline concept is not a phenomenon of the last couple of years in the Airline industry even if the recent development of these carriers in Europe might lead to this conclusion The first Airline operating under the No Frills concept started in the beginning of the 1970ies in the USA and it took quite a while until this concept was followed by Airlines in Europe South America and Asia Pacific There were a lot of No Frills Airlines coming and going again in the last 33 years To start an Airline and define it as a No Frills carrier seems to be not enough to be successful in the market for a lot of years Only a very restricted number of these Airlines were successful and profitable for years The question is why What are the reasons why some No Frills Airlines are surviving and others do not This is one of the questions which will be answered in this paper The low cost and low price strategy which is the basis for the No Frills concept in the Airline Industry is a business concept which was described by Porter as one of the basic strategies a company can follow This strategy was followed by a lot of companies in other industries like ALDI IKEA and Toyota These companies followed successfully the cost leadership strategy but adopted also other strategic goals to their business concept like quality and corporate culture items The cost leadership strategy is nothing new but how can it be reached and maintained in the Airline industry What are the prerequisites and the required activities to be successful in this industry with this concept In this paper answers to these questions will be given The Southwest Airlines Way Jody Hoffer Gittel,2005-05-05 Through extensive research the author gets to the bottom of what has sustained Southwest Airlines positive employee relations and high performance through good and bad times The Conference Proceedings of the 2003 Air Transport Research Society \(ATRS\) World Conference WCTR Society. Air Transport Research Society. Conference,2003 Strategic Alliances in the Aviation Industry Hendrik Vedder,2008-12 Bachelor Thesis from the year 2008 in the subject Business economics Business Management Corporate Governance grade 1 9 European Business School International University Schlo Reichartshausen Oestrich Winkel Chair of Strategic Aviation Management course Bacheloarbeit language English abstract Companies are just beginning to learn what nations have always known in a complex uncertain world filled with dangerous opponents it is best not to go it alone Ohmae 1989 p 143 This statement emphasises the significant developments in firms corporate strategy in the 1980s As a response to the rise of globalisation and thus increased competition companies throughout the world started collaborating with partners with interfirm cooperation Their cooperative practices though were not equally relevant in all branches but concentrated mainly on industries that were affected most by the increasing environmental dynamic and complexity. Therefore firms in various industries such as the automotive or telecommunication industry established alliances with their competitors in order to stay competitive and to jointly expand into world markets. However the aviation industry in particular has experienced downright alliance frenzy since that time. With the gradual liberalisation of international air transport collaborations between carriers have steadily gained importance. Therefore airline alliances have developed from purely horizontal links into more complex and integrated strategic alliances. These strategic alliances have been established mainly to bypass existing regulatory restrictions and to adapt to customers altered preferences by extending the airlines networks. However with the incidents that occurred during the first years of the 21st century such as the terrorist acts of 9/11 partner airlines were forced to react to the changed external conditions. This development highlights the high dependence of air lines and their strateg.
