

Bile pigments in Urine

- The main bile pigments are bilirubin and biliverdin.
- Bilirubin is converted to non-reactive biliverdin on exposure to light (daylight or fluorescent light) and on standing at room temperature. Biliverdin cannot be detected by tests that detect bilirubin. Therefore fresh sample that is kept protected from light is required.
- Presence of bilirubin in urine indicates conjugated hyperbilirubinemia (obstructive or hepatocellular jaundice) as only conjugated bilirubin is water-soluble.
- Bilirubin in urine is absent in hemolytic Jaundice because unconjugated bilirubin is water-insoluble.
