Developments in Telecommunications Edward Mozley Roche, Henry Bakis,1997 Developments in information technology and telecommunications are giving a new meaning to the concepts of space and time In particular the concepts of local and global are starting to merge together even though they apparently represent entirely different scales One example is telework also known as telecommuting Another is the rapid growth of outsourcing These developments are based on new technologies such as multimedia rapid improvements in storage technologies and the information superhighway including the Internet The structure of the world s telecommunications industry is changing and in addition political and social autonomy is breaking down The role of the nation state is challenged as are the old avenues and levers of political power Nation States have attempted to grab functional control over the emerging infrastructure but they are ultimately unable to exert control over the flood of information surging around the world There still remains a strong middle ground between local and global dominated by multinational corporations and national governments Developments in

Re-imagining Development Communication in Africa Chuka Onwumehili, Ikechukwu Ndolo,2013 Re imagining Development Communication in Africa is organized into three sections or parts the first focusing on the past and the history of development communication scholarship the second analyzes theoretical issues and finally a third section that looks at country cases The first part provides several perspectives on the historical development of the field as it pertains to Africa Some of these look at ideological indigenous contributions and the particular importance of gender issues The second section provides a critique of development communication theory and provides a more cultural appropriate alternative Additionally the book applies existing theory to practice in African communities This leads to the third section of the book which focuses on development communication in some country cases such as in Cameroon Kenya Nigeria and Rwanda North American Telecommunications Association V. post industrial society is generally thought to be technological But such an explanation is too narrow Broadly speaking the age in which we find ourselves could be more aptly described as a global knowledge intensive age Many of today s knowledge intensive activities like research and development R D programs are being conducted with relative ease on a multinational scale As well as science having an increasing impact on processes of innovation R D activities also have become more complex We can observe a growing sophistication of learning by doing among creative economic agents This more sophisticated era of global knowledge exchange is facilitated by major advances in our infrastructure networks In this highly interactive world many innovations are by products of collective exchanges between cities far apart simplified by the ease of transport and communication Thus there is a need for us to look more closely at various collective sequences of learning knowledge exchange and innovation in a spatial setting This is the primary purpose of this book
