Dewdney Trail Hope To Fort Steele:

Vanishing British Columbia Michael Kluckner,2011-11-01 The old buildings and historic places of British Columbia form a kind of roadside memory a tangible link with stories of settlement change and abandonment that reflect the great themes of our history With small towns declining and old rural properties changing so little of the history of these places has been recorded in museums or archives and so much of it may disappear as families disperse and memories dim More than a decade ago Michael Kluckner began painting these dots on his personal map of the province in a watercolour sketchbook In 1999 after he put a few of the sketches on his website a network of correspondents emerged that eventually led him to the family letters photo albums and memories all from a disappearing era of the province Vanishing British Columbia is a record of these places and the stories they tell It combines engaging and insightful historical commentary with over 160 of the author s original paintings It has an exceptional assortment of historic imagery including old postcards architectural plans and photographs The study of roadside memory demonstrates the visceral connection that people especially those who are part of the rural to urban diaspora of modern times have for the sites of their family memories On a grander scale this approach leads to a broader understanding of more abstract historical themes and of the province s history and culture It also presents a compelling argument for stewardship of regional history in the face of urbanization and globalization

Peter O'Reilly Lynne Stonier-Newman,2011-07-06 Powerful and diligent Peter O Reilly played a role in shaping British Columbia in the last quarter of the 1800s An immigrant from Ireland O Reilly landed in Victoria during the height of the Cariboo Gold Rush and was appointed gold commissioner for BC He held the position of county court judge and sorted settler and Native disputes despite often having to function as an assistant land commissioner From 1880 to 1898 O Reilly was the federally appointed BC Indian Reserve Lands commissioner Many of his decisions about the location and size of Native reserves continue to be challenged in the courts to this day In Peter O Reilly we also see the private side of this industrious man a man who enjoyed the vast wilderness for years on horseback or by foot on snowshoes or in a canoe He had many acquaintances and two close friends Sir Matthew Baillie Begbie and Edward Dewdney He lived with his cherished wife Caroline Trutch O Reilly and their children at Point Ellice House in Victoria BC Scarlet and Gold ,1956 The Year Book of British Columbia and Manual of Provincial Information R.
