The Medical Library Association Encyclopedic Guide to Searching and Finding Health Information on the Web: Health and wellness P. F. Anderson, Nancy J. Allee, 2004

Annotation: Searching for health information may be the most important type of search a librarian performs in a day. Instead of starting a health care search with a blank computer screen or simply accessing ordinary information available most anywhere on the Web, start with help from the prestigious Medical Library Association. Each entry will show you how an experienced health sciences librarian would approach the question. You can begin a truly valuable search knowing special searching issues: What to ask, Where to start, Supplementary search strategies, Topic profile, Recommended search terms, and important sites, Hotline phone numbers, FAQs, Publications on the Internet, Professional organizations, Patient support organizations, and discussion groups. Best One Stop Shops. Finally, there's one ready reference source written by librarians to help their colleagues that covers every important aspect of the question you or your user want to answer.

Clinical Handbook of Health Psychology Paul Marc Camic, Sara J. Knight, 1998

A practical reference for clinicians, interns, and advanced graduate students who are already familiar with the specialty with the basics of clinical interviewing and with several of the key interventions used in health psychology. Assists them in translating research and theory into clinical interventions, explaining the technical knowledge required to work with medical patients, and emphasizing the value of the process of healing.
