Diagnostic Framework For Revenue Administration:

A Diagnostic Framework for Revenue Administration Jit B. S. Gill, 2000-01-01 A systematic diagnosis of a revenue administration is a prerequisite to developing a successful strategy for its reform. However, given the complexity of tax and customs administration, this is not a simple task. A host of external and internal factors need to be analyzed to uncover the roots of organizational and institutional dysfunction. Also, the diagnosis needs to be done in a participatory manner to build consensus around the causes for inadequate performance and their remedies. This framework enables a step-by-step analysis of the environment, history, resources, strategy, transformation processes, outputs, and feedback mechanisms of the revenue administration system with a view to identifying systemic deficiencies that lead to inefficiency and ineffectiveness in its operations. Besides a detailed set of diagnostic questions for each area of analysis, the framework provides illustrations of frequently encountered problems and their possible remedies. The framework can be used in a group setting involving different stakeholders to guide brainstorming sessions and draft reform strategies.

Customs Modernization Handbook

Luc De Wulf, Jose B. Sokol, 2005-01-03 Trade integration contributes substantially to economic development and poverty alleviation. In recent years, much progress was made to liberalize the trade regime, but customs procedures are often still complex, costly, and non-transparent. This situation leads to misallocation of resources. Customs Modernization Handbook provides an overview of the key elements of a successful customs modernization strategy and draws lessons from a number of successful customs reforms, as well as from customs reform projects that have been undertaken by the World Bank. It describes a number of key import procedures that have proved particularly troublesome for customs administrations and traders and provides practical guidelines to enhance their efficiency. The Handbook also reviews the appropriate legal framework for customs operations, as well as strategies to combat corruption.

A Sourcebook for Poverty Reduction

Strategies: Core techniques and cross-cutting issues Jeni Klugman, 2002 Institutional Elements of Tax Design and Reform John McLaren, 2002-12-31 This is a collection of papers that study the constraints on fiscal systems imposed by problems of institutions, administration, and incentives in developing and post-Socialist economies. Chapter two focuses on the administration of indirect taxation and provides a case study of indirect taxation in Tanzania. This shows how evasion can be documented and quantified through a case study that looks at a particular type of reform aimed at curbing evasion: franchising or privatizing the right to tax, which has been tried in several Tanzanian towns as a way of collecting vendor fees for access to a public market. Chapter three is a theoretical study of evasion under a value-added tax (VAT) and the inefficiencies it can create. Chapter four studies the fiscal constraints within the federal politics of Russia, while Chapters five and six examine case studies of India in fiscal federalism, in which the determination of fiscal outcomes is to a considerable degree a matter of bargaining between political entities in the center and in the periphery. In both cases, it appears that large-scale distortions away from an ideal tax system emerge as a result, suggesting corruption can be fought by increasing functional specialization within a tax bureaucracy The last chapter looks at the problem of opportunistic taxation particularly regarding the African context and studies various ways in which the problem can be alleviated □□□□□□□□□□ , Forum for Development Studies ,2004 The Stationery Office Agency Catalogue Stationery Office (Great Britain),2000

Measurement and Meaning Estanislao Gacitúa-Marió, Quentin Wodon,2001 This report consists of a collection of case studies from Latin America combining qualitative and quantitative research methods for the analysis of poverty within a social exclusion framework The first chapter provides an overview of the differences between quantitative and qualitative methods and the gains from using both types of methods in applied work The other chapters are devoted to three case studies on reproductive health in rural Argentina the targeting of social programs in Chile and social exclusion in urban Uruguay Each case study was prepared within the broader context of country specific economic and sectoral work at the World Bank The chapters are 1 Combining Qualitative and Quantitative Methods for Policy Research on Poverty within a Social Exclusion Framework Carine Clert Estanislao Gacitua Mario and Quentin Wodon 2 Reproductive Health in Argentina s Poor Rural Area Estanislao Gacitua Mario Corinne Sianes and Quentin Wodon 3 The Targeting of Government Programs in Chile Carine Clert and Quentin Wodon and 4 Social Exclusion in Urban Uruguay Each chapter contains references Author SLD

Generating Public Sector Resources to Finance Sustainable Development Stefano Pagiola,2002 Annotation This specific objective of this book is to explore potential avenues for generating more resources for the public sector to invest in sustainable development Public Sector Reform World Bank. Independent Evaluation Group,2008 The effectiveness and efficiency of a country s public sector is vital to the success of development activities including those the World Bank supports Sound financial management an efficient civil service and administrative policy efficient and fair collection of taxes and transparent operations that are relatively free of corruption all contribute to good delivery of public services The Bank has devoted an increasing share of its lending and advisory support to the reform of central governments so it is important to understand what is working what needs improvement and what is missing IEG has examined lending and other kinds of Bank support in 1999 2006 for public sector reform in four areas public financial management administrative and civil service revenue administration and anticorruption and transparency Although a majority of countries that borrowed to support public sector reform experienced improved performance in some dimensions there were shortcomings in important areas and in overall coordination The frequency of improvement was higher among IBRD borrowers than among IDA borrowers Performance usually improved for public financial management tax administration and transparency but did not usually with respect to civil service Direct measures to reduce corruption such as anticorruption laws and commissions rarely succeeded Financing, Efficiency, and Equity in Albanian Education Geremia Palomba, Milan Vodopivec,2001 This report compiles a rich set of previously unavailable data to define where the education sector in Albania has evolved what key challenges remain and the priority areas for action by the Albanian government The report finds that four broad tasks must be tackled to improve education The country must 1 increase enrollment rates with the goal of achieving truly universal education in primary and lower secondary schools and reversing the actual trend of decreasing secondary enrollment 2 improve the quality of education which requires developing human resource policies such as teacher development programs and improved salaries that will attract good teachers and give them incentives to perform well in classrooms and providing an adequate physical school environment which means among other things renovating and adequately maintaining school buildings 3 increase public spending on education which requires developing clear priorities and reducing relative spending on tertiary education providing constant and reliable funding to support the identified policy priorities and increasing spending on non wage expenditures and investments and 4 make better use of teachers and schools by decentralizing decisionmaking and responsibilities that are more reasonably delegated to the local level Revenue Administration

National Association of Tax Administrators (U.S.),1951 European Integration and Income Convergence Carmela Martín,2001 The prospect of enlarging the European Union EU to Central and Eastern European countries with income levels far below those of present members questions how and when the candidates aspiration to converge towards EU standards of living could possibly be fulfilled To address these questions this paper seeks to assess of the convergence experience of the four less developed EU members i e Spain Portugal Ireland and Greece after joining the EU and to explore what lessons can be learned from that experience The discussion suggests that while theoretically possible there is little empirical reason to fear that European integration would cause economies to diverge Rather than being spontaneous however real convergence would seem to depend crucially on the capacity of countries to tap international technological spillovers particularly through foreign direct investment Macroeconomic stability effective competition on goods and factor markets and a good human capital endowment are essential to harness benefits Nonetheless lingering worries about the possibility that integration would lead to real divergence between countries or regions of Europe has led to the creation of large transfers under the EU s Regional Policy Pending more conclusive evidence of their effectiveness the candidate countries would seem wise to put greater store by those domestic policies than by EU grants to fuel their convergence

American Book Publishing Record ,2000-07 Services Trade in the Balkans Constantine Michalopoulos,Vasileios Panousopoulos,2002 This study aims at providing an overview of policies affecting services trade in seven countries of the Balkan region and stresses the growing importance of services trade The service sectors particularly tourism and transport play an important role in the economies of the Balkan countries The paper finds that on average the countries involved are committed to a liberal trade regime for services and that they have made more commitments to liberalize services in the World Trade Organization WTO than developing countries at comparable levels of development For the future the paper encourages further liberalization at the regional level on a Most Favoured Nation MFN basis as well as policy harmonization with the European Union Bibliographie Mensuelle United Nations Library (Geneva, Switzerland),2000 Development,
