Dialectic and Rhetoric F.H. van Eemeren, Peter Houtlosser, 2013-03-14 This volume discusses two distinct perspectives on the analysis of argumentative discourse the dialectical and the rhetorical perspective It intends to open a thorough discussion of the two approaches their commonalities and differences and the ways in which in some combination or other they can be used to further the development of sound analytic tools for dealing with argumentation

The Art of Dialectic between Dialogue and Rhetoric Marta Spranzi, 2011-06-22 This book reconstructs the tradition of dialectic from Aristotle's Topics its founding text up to its renaissance in 16th century Italy and focuses on the role of dialectic in the production of knowledge Aristotle defines dialectic as a structured exchange of questions and answers and thus links it to dialogue and disputation while Cicero develops a mildly skeptical version of dialectic identifies it with reasoning in utramque partem and connects it closely to rhetoric These two interpretations constitute the backbone of the living tradition of dialectic and are variously developed in the Renaissance against the Medieval background The book scrutinizes three separate contexts in which these developments occur Rudolph Agricola's attempt to develop a new dialectic in close connection with rhetoric Agostino Nifo's thoroughly Aristotelian approach and its use of the newly translated commentaries of Alexander of Aphrodisias and Averroes and Carlo Sigonio's literary theory of the dialogue form which is centered around Aristotle's Topics Today Aristotelian dialectic enjoys a new life within argumentation theory the final chapter of the book briefly revisits these contemporary developments and draws some general epistemological conclusions linking the tradition of dialectic to a fallibilist view of knowledge

Rhetoric & Dialectic in the Time of Galileo Jean Dietz Moss, William A. Wallace, 2003 Examines the teaching and practice of the twin arts of argumentation rhetoric and dialectic in the time of Galileo Galileo was an ardent controversialist on behalf of his astronomical theories yet many today are unacquainted with the kinds of argument that became a focal point in his famous trial The authors combine their vast knowledge of rhetoric history and philosophy to explain the background of the dispute between science and religion They present an engaging discussion of the prevailing modes of rhetorical and scientific arguments in Northern Italy during the Renaissance They display primary texts on the arts of rhetoric and dialectic by authors whose thought was known to Galileo

A Systematic Theory of Argumentation Frans H. van Eemeren, Robert Grootendorst, Rob Grootendorst, 2004 In this book two of the leading figures in argumentation theory present a view of argumentation as a means of resolving differences of opinion by testing the acceptability of the disputed positions Their model of a critical discussion serves as a theoretical tool for analyzing evaluating and producing argumentative discourse This is a major contribution to the study of argumentation and will be of particular value to professionals and graduate students in speech communication informal logic rhetoric critical thinking linguistics and philosophy

H. Van Eemeren, Peter Houtlosser, 2014-01-15 Argumentation, Communication, and Fallacies Frans H. van Eemeren, Rob Grootendorst, 2016-07-22 This volume gives a theoretical account of the problem of analyzing and evaluating argumentative discourse After placing argumentation in a communicative perspective and then discussing the fallacies that occur when certain rules of communication are violated the authors offer an alternative to both the linguistically inspired descriptive and logically inspired normative approaches to argumentation The authors characterize argumentation as a complex speech act in a critical discussion aimed at resolving a difference of opinion The various stages of a critical discussion are outlined and the communicative and interactional aspects of the speech acts performed in resolving a simple or complex dispute are discussed After dealing with crucial aspects of analysis and linking the evaluation of argumentative discourse to the analysis the authors identify the fallacies that can occur at various stages of discussion Their general aim is to elucidate their own pragma dialectical perspective on the analysis and evaluation of argumentative discourse bringing together pragmatic insight concerning speech acts and dialectical insight concerning critical discussion

Anyone Who Has a View F.H. van Eemeren, J. Anthony Blair, Charles A. Willard, A. Francisca Snoeck Henkemans, 2012-12-06 This volume of the Argumentation Library contains a collection of twenty six theoretical contributions to the study of argumentation Together they provide an overview of recent developments in the theory of argumentation which does justice to the theoretical variety in the field In Anyone Who Has a View the subject of argumentation is approached from different angles Both the formal and informal logical approaches and the rhetorical and communicative approaches are represented in various ways We are convinced that the collection of essays as a whole will be of interest not only to those engaged directly in the study of argumentation but also to scholars from a variety of disciplines who are interested in the recent developments in this field The book opens with an essay by the informal logician Robert C Pinto For all the differences between them James B Freeman Harvey Siegel Ralph H Johnson Hans V Hansen and J Anthony Blair are also prominent members of that movement Some informal logicians either eschew or simply do not use formal methods in their approach to argumentation while others such as David Hitchcock use both formal and informal methods Erik C W Krabbe is a logician who proudly defends a formal dialectical approach to argumentation Daniel H Cohen Frans H van Eemeren Peter Houtlosser Fred J Kauffeld C Scott Jacobs Christian Kock Christian Plantin Sorin Stati Chris Reed Douglas N

The Rhetoric of Argumentation William J. Brandt, 1970

The New Dialectic Douglas N. Walton, 1998 In this book Douglas Walton proposes a new and practical approach to argument analysis based on his theory that different standards for argument must apply in the case of different types of dialogue By refining and extending the existing formal classifications of dialogue Walton shows that each dialogue type be it inquiry negotiation or critical discussion has its own set of goals He goes on to demonstrate that an argument can best be evaluated in terms of its contribution positive or negative to the goals of the particular dialogue it is meant to further In this way he illustrates how argument can be brought into the service of many types of dialogue and thus has valuable uses that go well beyond the mere settling of disputes and differences

A Rhetoric of Argument Jeanne

Fahnestock, Marie Secor, 1982      The New Rhetoric Chaïm Perelman, Lucie Olbrechts-Tyteca, 1969 The New Rhetoric is founded on the idea that since argumentation aims at securing the adherence of those to whom it is addressed it is in its entirety relative to the audience to be influenced says Cha m Perelman and L. Olbrechts Tyteca and they rely in particular for their theory of argumentation on the twin concepts of universal and particular audiences while every argument is directed to a specific individual or group the orator decides what information and what approaches will achieve the greatest adherence according to an ideal audience This ideal Perelman explains can be embodied for example in God in all reasonable and competent men in the man deliberating or in an elite Like particular audiences then the universal audience is never fixed or absolute but depends on the orator the content and goals of the argument and the particular audience to whom the argument is addressed These considerations determine what information constitutes facts and reasonableness and thus help to determine the universal audience that in turn shapes the orator s approach The adherence of an audience is also determined by the orator s use of values a further key concept of the New Rhetoric Perelman s treatment of value and his view of epideictic rhetoric sets his approach apart from that of the ancients and of Aristotle in particular Aristotle s division of rhetoric into three genres forensic deliberative and epideictic is largely motivated by the judgments required for each forensic or legal arguments require verdicts on past action deliberative or political rhetoric seeks judgment on future action and epideictic or ceremonial rhetoric concerns values associated with praise or blame and seeks no specific decisions For Aristotle the epideictic genre was of limited importance in the civic realm since it did not concern facts or policies Perelman in contrast believes not only that epideictic rhetoric warrants more attention but that the values normally limited to that genre are in fact central to all argumentation Epideictic oratory Perelman argues has significant and important argumentation for strengthening the disposition toward action by increasing adherence to the values it lauds These values are central to the persuasiveness of arguments in all rhetorical genres since the orator always attempts to establish a sense of communion centered around particular values recognized by the audience      Argumentation, Communication, and Fallacies Frans H. van Eemeren, Robert Grootendorst, 1992 This volume gives a theoretical account of the problem of analyzing and evaluating argumentative discourse After placing argumentation in a communicative perspective and then discussing the fallacies that occur when certain rules of communication are violated the authors offer an alternative to both the linguistically inspired descriptive and logically inspired normative approaches to argumentation The authors characterize argumentation as a complex speech act in a critical discussion aimed at resolving a difference of opinion The various stages of a critical discussion are outlined and the communicative and interactional aspects of the speech acts performed in resolving a simple or complex dispute are discussed After dealing with crucial aspects of analysis and linking the evaluation of argumentative discourse to the analysis the authors identify the fallacies that can occur at various stages of discussion Their general aim is to elucidate their own pragma dialectical perspective on the analysis and evaluation of argumentative discourse bringing together pragmatic insight concerning speech acts and dialectical insight concerning critical discussion

Argumentor Stan a. Lindsay Ph. D.,2015-01-01 This book begins by defining argumentation not as emotional assertions or in other negative senses but as a logical rational approach to making good decisions based upon sound reasoning The author relies on the contributions of Aristotle plus Aristotle s teacher Plato and Plato s teacher Socrates rather than attempting to reinvent the wheel of argumentation Aristotle s perspective on dialectic and rhetoric constitutes the ground on which rhetoricians in the ancient Roman world and rhetorical theoreticians of the Twentieth and Twenty first Centuries have built Contemporary scholars such as Kenneth Burke Stephen Toulmin and Chaim Perelman have refined Aristotle s wheel and hence improved upon it but students of argumentation are well advised to return first of all to the invention of the wheel to examine its construction to see how the basic structures operate in the argumentation process Students of argumentation may then consider the refinements that have been made over the years Using insights introduced by Socrates Plato and Aristotle and later fine tuned by Stephen Toulmin the book introduces deductive reasoning with its syllogism rhetorical syllogism the enthymeme and Toulmin s six part expansion of deductive reasoning Inductive reasoning with its reliance on examples and statistics is also introduced Although argumentation is defined by Lindsay as primarily the logical proof presented by Aristotle logos as opposed to ethos and pathos Lindsay extends Aristotle s concept of ethos to demonstrate the concept s reliance on the syllogism logos as well Lindsay lists the eight primary characteristics of argumentation 1 It is good it allows rational individuals to reach rational conclusions to make rational decisions 2 It consists of offering proofs not simply assertions 3 It is the use of logic as opposed to the use of emotion 4 It is most successful when the participants do not feel an ego centric need to win but instead seek to find the most reasonable position on issues 5 It may be used to test and maintain either an absolute truth or a probable truth 6 It at least seeks to establish probable possible or plausible truth 7 It is aimed primarily at producing faith pistis rather than absolute knowledge 8 It uses proofs that consist only of logos not ethos or pathos To Aristotle s three contexts of rhetorical argumentation judicial legal deliberative political and epideictic cultural Lindsay adds a fourth arguments concerning all time truth Lindsay ultimately offers a thorough demonstration of how the multiple principles of argumentation are used to demonstrate that a problem exists what caused the problem what types of solutions to the problem are suitable and how a complete proposal argument is put together
