issued in three parts Series Authors and Titles Perceptions of Change Joni Henry Noble,2009 The purpose of this study is to examine self perceived changes that occur over the course of the careers of three K 12 art educators located in north Louisiana and central Mississippi Designed as a case study this research focuses on the perceptions of three art educators with regard to perceived changes in their classrooms over the course of their teaching careers Art teachers were chosen not only because of the researcher s background in the arts but also because of the art educator s apparent underrepresentation in the body of academic research The three art educators who were participants in this study were also chosen because of their many years of service in the field Each has been teaching for 27 years or more in north Louisiana and central Mississippi Included is a brief review of the researcher s teaching history and educational background in order to establish positionality which also lends a degree of validity to the research Villenas 1996 In addition this positionality serves to illuminate the researcher s epistemological perspectives and her personal ways of knowing as an art teacher Cary 2006 Each teacher s story was divided into a life history a teaching history teaching today and significant perceived changes Each story was accomplished through multiple taped interviews document mining maintaining a researcher s journal and member checking A synopsis was developed of the common themes that coalesce each of the teachers lived experiences as well as common significant changes that each has perceived over the course of their careers Many changes were noted by each of the art teachers The most noted changes were found in the areas of technology the students themselves parental involvement peers and the discipline of art Implications for future research are suggested including a more case studies of other art teachers including more art teachers in north Louisiana and central Mississippi b further development of the researcher s journal associated with this study c and a study of some former students of each of these educators and the impact that these teachers have had on their lives Resources in Education ,1994 Research in Education ,1970 Art Teaching George Szekely,Julie Alsip Bucknam,2013-06-17 Art Teaching speaks to a new generation of art teachers in a changing society and fresh art world Comprehensive and up to date it presents fundamental theories principles creative approaches and resources for art teaching in elementary through middle school Key sections focus on how children make art why they
