Developments In Austrian And Israeli Private Law:

The Making of European Private Law J. M. Smits, 2002 The private law of the Member States of the European Union has become more and more European The fact that the European Union is making ever more use of directives as an instrument to achieve private law goals is in this context not the most important development Of much more substance is the fact that one increasingly realises that a uniform European private law has to be created in one way or another in the near future if a truly common European market is to function at all Over the last decade Europe has witnessed the emergence of a vigorous debate about the need for and the feasibility of a future European ius commune in the field of private law This book critically discusses this debate and provides a systematic overview of the various initiatives taken and describes the fragmentary European private law that already exists by way of European directives international conventions etc In addition the author aims at making a contribution to the debate by suggesting that the experience good or bad of the so called mixed legal systems is of great importance to the European private law venture and to the development of a uniform private law for Europe This idea is supported by insights from Law Economics and illustrated by South African law in particular This idea of European private law as a mixed legal system is then applied to the law of contracts torts and property This book takes up the challenge to give a critical examination on the various methods of creating this ius commune A detailed table of contents list of abbreviations bibliography table of cases and index complete the book and make it a valuable study for everyone interested in European private law

The Structure of Tort Law Nils Jansen, 2021 The first English translation of a classic of German tort theory this book analyses the theoretical foundations of tort law in historical and comparative perspective Focusing on the tensions in modern German tort law the book explains the historical development of tortious liability and argues for a foundational role of outcome responsibility

Developments in Austrian and Israeli Private Law Herbert Hausmaninger, Helmut Koziol, Alfredo M. Rabello, Israel Gilead, 1999-08-17

The present collection of essays is the fruit of two symposia of Austrian and Israeli scholars the first of which was held in Jerusalem and Ramat Gan in December 1997 the second in Vienna in October 1998 These meetings took place within the framework of a partnership between the Hebrew University of Jerusalem and the University of Vienna They permitted a stimulating comparative discussion of interesting questions in major fields of private law such as contracts torts family and inheritance law The 21 contributions to this volume address important legal issues from different perspectives They include on the one hand historical research reaching back into Biblical and other Ancient Near Eastern as well as Talmudic law and Roman law as the foundation of modern European legal systems on the other hand They discuss contemporary problems most of which are not confined to a particular national legal system and they address questions of law reform in a European and global context The editor of the collection wishes to thank a number of institutions and persons who have made this publication possible Financial support was given by the Austrian Ministry of Science and Transport by the Association of Friends of the University of Vienna Law School by the Ramat Gan Law College which also participated in the symposiums and by the Harry and Michael Sacher Institute of Legislative Research and Comparative Law The Hebrew University of Jerusalem Editorial supervision for the Israeli contributions was provided by Prof. Alfredo Mordechai Rabello and Prof. Israel Gilead On the Austrian side Professors Herbert Hausmaninger and Helmut Koziol shared this task Michael B. Dunn, Herbert Hausmaninger's research assistant at the Cornell Law School, improved English language and style of the Austrian contributions Dr. Richard Gamauf, Mag. Verena Haas and Magret Altrichter of the Institute of Roman Law in the University of Vienna provided editorial assistance and a uniform layout for the entire publication Vienna, Jerusalem and Ramat Gan, June 1999
