U.S. Master GAAP Guide Bill D. Jarnagin,2006 Statement of Financial Accounting Standards ,1973 Concept Mapping for Planning and Evaluation Mary Kane,William M. K. Trochim,2007 At last an up to date how to text on concept mapping in evaluation Mary Kane and William Trochim instrumental in the development and promotion of concept mapping have finally produced such book which will enable experienced evaluators and program planners to add concept mapping to their suite of methods Rick Cummings Evaluation Journal of AustralasiaConcept mapping is a methodology for mapping ideas that integrates input from multiple sources with differing expertise or interest creates maps with multivariate data analyses that depict the composite thinking of the group and yields data that allows for comparisons across rating criteria stakeholder groups different points in time etc to aid in targeted planning implementation strategies and evaluation Group concept mapping is related to the growing interest in the role that theory plays in planning and evaluation Concept Mapping for Planning and Evaluation is a thorough accessible guide to concept mapping for social or organizational researchers in any context The volume describes the history of structured conceptualization a most useful form of concept mapping It also highlights the advantages that group or community concept mapping has over other kinds of group decision processes With straightforward language and useful examples from the authors 40 combined years of creating and working with this process the book describes in detail the six major steps in the conduct of group concept mapping and shares both the process of concept mapping and the equally important facilitation and guidance techniques that the authors have developed Examples from work with clients like the Centers for Disease Control the National Institutes of Health and state government as well as interesting examples from concept mapping in social research contexts illustrate each step in the process Each chapter provides work sheets for readers to create their own concept mapping plans References that provide recommendations for further reading are included as well as contact information for research guidance Key Features Provides a complete guide to the concept mapping methodology and strategies behind using it for a broad range of social scientists including students researchers and practitioners Pays special attention to the issues facing the facilitator of a concept mapping project where the authors share considerable real world experience in planning and implementing these projects together with extensive content on the technical underpinnings of this method and its key issues in analysis and results interpretation Features closing chapters on using concept mapping in planning and evaluation which show some of the broad range of how concept mapping can be applied in practice together with detailed examples from actual practice Includes forms for readers to use in their own concept mapping activities Including Estimates of the Future in Today's Financial Statements Mary E. Barth,2006 This paper explains why the question is how not if today s financial statements should include estimates of the future Including such estimates is not new but their use is increasing This increase results primarily because standard setters believe asset and liability measures that reflect current economic conditions and up to date expectations of the future will result in more useful information for making economic decisions which is the objective of financial reporting This is why standard setters seem focused on fair value accounting How estimates of the future are incorporated in financial statements depends on the asset and liability measurement attribute and on financial reporting definitions of assets and liabilities The present definitions depend on identifying past transactions or events that give rise to expected inflows or outflows of economic benefits and for inflows control over the expected benefits Thus not all expected inflows or outflows of economic benefits are recognised Note disclosures can help users understand recognised estimates and can provide information about unrecognised estimates Including more estimates of the future in today s financial statements would result in an income measure that differs from today s income but arguably provides better information for making economic decisions Public Opinion - Propaganda - Ideology Fabian Schäfer,2012-05-11 As early as prewar Japan thinkers of various intellectual proveniences had begun discussing the most important topics of contemporary media and communication studies such as ways to define the social function of the press journalism and the formation of public opinion In Public Opinion Propaganda Ideology light is particularly shed on press scholar Ono Hideo his disciple the sociologist and propaganda researcher Koyama Eiz Marxist philosopher Tosaka Jun and sociologist and postwar intellectual Shimizu Ikutar Besides introducing the different approaches of the aforementioned figures this book also contextualizes the early discursive space of Japanese media and communication studies within global contexts from three perspectives of transnational intellectual history i e adaptation reciprocities and parallels Human Occupation. Introduction to the Theory and Practice of Occupational Therapy Linda Mathews,2011-11 Essay from the year 2008 in the subject English Miscellaneous grade 60% South Bank University London London South Bank University UK 23 entries in the bibliography language English abstract The definition of the concept of quality of life QOL has long been debated with contributions varying according to the different scientific disciplines including social sciences psychology geography philosophy health economics advertising medical science and history Bowling 1995 Faruqhar 1995 Liddle McKenna 2000 Taking into account the difficulty of defining QOL Bowling 1995 this essay will critically discuss the suggestion that the experience of quality of life is not dependent upon the quantifiable material conditions of life but upon subjective qualitative factors the content of life Hammell 2004 p299 Beginning with a brief definition of the concept QOL in relation to the concept of human occupation and the philosophy of occupational therapy OT it will be discussed whether quantifiable conditions in terms of socio economic resources and measurable physical function are appropriate indicators for QOL The discussion will then move towards the question of a suitable approach to QOL measurement and explain the implications for the role of OT In an attempt to define the concept of QOL Zhan 1992 proposes an example of a conceptual model which speaks of four measurable dimensions of QOL namely life satisfaction self concept health and functioning and socio economic factors Zhan 1992 p796 and suggests in consensus with Liddle McKenna 2000 that QOL is both a subjective as well as an objective concept Niemi et al 1988 prefer to define QOL as referring to a person s subjective wellbeing and life satisfaction which includes health material well being interpersonal relationships as well as personal development work and recreation Niemi et al cited in Mayers 2000 p591 Business Studies ,2002
