

MAKING COOKIES

1. Our cookie recipes were tested using sifted all-purpose flour. We recommend using this type to insure success.
2. When buying baking pans, look for the manufacturer's stamp or mark on each pan, which indicates the size of the pan. Most baking pans today are standardized.
3. If you already have pans that are not marked, measure them from one top inside edge to the opposite inside edge; then mark them yourself.
4. The back of any large baking pan may be substituted for a cookie sheet. Use greased or ungreased, as recipe directs.
5. If you are baking one sheet of cookies at a time, place oven rack in center of oven. If you are baking two sheets, place racks to divide oven into thirds. If tops of cookies do not brown properly, move to a higher rack the last few minutes of baking.
6. Always cool cookie sheet before placing unbaked cookies on it.
7. Check cookies when minimum baking time is up. To cool baked cookies, remove with a wide spatula to wire racks. Do not overlap cookies on racks.
8. Buy two cookie sheets; one sheet of cookies can be baking while the other one is filled.

Storing Cookies

1. Empty coffee or shortening cans are fine for storing cookies.
 2. Line bottom of container with waxed paper; place a sheet of waxed paper between each two layers of cookies. Store crisp and soft cookies in separate containers.
- Soft Cookies: Store in container with tight-fitting lid. A slice of apple or bread in the container helps to keep cookies moist. Replace fruit or bread often to prevent mold.
- Crisp Cookies: Store in container with loose-fitting lid. If cookies lose their crispness, heat at 300F about 5 minutes before serving.
- Bar Cookies: Store right in baking pan. Cover tightly with foil or saran.

Bright, shiny cookie sheets insure delicately browned cookies. They should be at least an inch shorter and narrower than the oven, to allow for circulation of heat.

Tips for Holiday Baking

Mark special cookie-baking days on your calendar.

Remember that cookies made with honey or fruit, such as Lebkuchen Rounds, may be baked about a month ahead and stored in a cool, dry place (air-tight containers) to mellow.

Rolled ginger cookies and other rolled cookies may be baked about two weeks ahead.

Rich butter cookies and meringue-type cookies are best when baked several days before using.

Chop nuts, slice candied cherries, etc., when you have time, or have available an extra pair of hands in the kitchen. Store in air-tight jars, in a cool place, until needed.

Sift flour and confectioners' sugar onto a square of waxed paper; then measure.

Start a box to hold colored sugar, miniature nonpareils, unusual spices used in holiday cookies, etc., so that when you start making cookies, you'll be sure to have these in the house.

When decorating cookies, keep all your bits of candied fruit, colored sugars, nuts, etc., in individual paper cups or in muffin-pan cups.

To blanch almonds: Cover shelled nuts with cold water; bring to boil. Remove from heat; drain. Press each nut between fingers, so husk will slip off easily. Then drain dry on paper towels.
