Body Subject And Power In China:

Body, Subject, and Power in China Angela Zito, Tani E. Barlow, 1994-05-16 For the first time this volume brings to the study of China the theoretical concerns and methods of contemporary critical cultural studies Written by historians art historians anthropologists and literary critics who came of age after the People's Republic resumed scholarly ties with the United States these essays yield valuable new insights not only for China studies but also by extension for non Asian cultural criticism Contributors investigate problems of bodiliness engendered subjectivities and discourses of power through a variety of sources that include written texts paintings buildings interviews and observations Taken together the essays show that bodies in China have been classified represented discussed ritualized gendered and eroticized in ways as rich and multiple as those described in critical histories of the West Silk robes rocks winds gestures of bowing yin yang hierarchies and cross dressing have helped create experiences of the body specific to Chinese historical life By pointing to multiple examples of reimagining subjectivity and renegotiating power the essays encourage scholars to avoid making broad generalizations about China and to rethink traditional notions of power subject and bodiliness in light of actual Chinese practices Body Subject and Power in China is at once an example of the changing face of China studies and a work of importance to the entire discipline of cultural studies

The Subject in Crisis in Contemporary Chinese Literature Rong Cai, 2004 During the 1980s 1990s the crippled agent who fails to realise the humanist autonomy envisioned by post Mao theorists remained a common subject of Chinese literature Rong Cai studies the work of five contemporary writers assesses the reasons for the popularity of this subject

The Subject of Gender Harriet Evans, 2008 Women in urban China have lived through decades of political turbulence extensive socio economic change and the transformation of gender practices expectations and relationships Among these is the mother daughter relationship one that has profound influence on women's gendered subjectivity but one that has been overlooked in research on gender and family in China In The Subject of Gender Harriet Evans reflects on how women in urban China make sense of the shifts in practices and representations of gender that frame their lives and how their self identification as mothers and daughters contributes to the redefinition of those practices Based on the memories and experiences of educated and professional women of different ages this book discusses the mother daughter relationship through various themes separation communication domestic public boundaries male privilege the sexed body reproduction and filial responsibilities This fascinating work draws on feminist and critical theory and on anthropological and historical research to analyze the changing articulations of gender subjectivity that emerge from the links between discursive shifts generational difference and individual experiences of the mother daughter relationship
