Computerized Manufacturing Process Planning Systems Hong-Chao Zhang, L. Alting, 1993-11-30 With the rapid development of Computer Integrated Manufacturing CIM Computer Aided Process Planning CAPP is becoming increasingly important since it plays a key role in CIM This book systematically discusses process planning and how to implement computerized process planning systems In essence the aim of the book is to provide a comprehensive review of CAPP from a manufacturing engineering perspective Strong emphasis is placed on the understanding of the fundamental principles allied with the implementation of CAPP systems The book also provides state of the art knowledge on all aspects of computerized manufacturing process planning technologies Criteria on how to evaluate CAPP systems are also included The book can be used as a graduate text for courses on Manufacturing Process Planning and Advanced Manufacturing Engineering It is also eminently suitable as a reference book for guiding research activities in the area of developing CAPP systems and production integration Production managers and manufacturing engineers will also find the book useful to update their knowledge

An Introduction to Automated Process Planning Systems Tien-Chien Chang, Richard A. Wysk, 1985 Computer Aided Process Planning (CAPP) Architecture Technology Architecture Technology Corpor, 2016-07-29 Please note this is a Short Discount publication Process planning involves creating detailed plans of the manufacturing steps and equipment necessary to produce a finished part Using the variant method CAPP groups families of parts by a structured classification and coding plan This report summarizes the state of the art and future trends in the area of CAPP The computer is a vital part of the process planning function which includes two different approaches One is called the variant similar part method of process planning and the other is generative expert system based Both will produce similar process plans Most computer applications however are of the variant type because the software is easier to develop and new process plans are based on previous ones

Computerized Manufacturing Automation, 1984 Computerized manufacturing automation : employment, education, and the workplace., 1984 The CRC Handbook of Mechanical Engineering D. Yogi Goswami, 2004-09-29 The second edition of this standard setting handbook provides and all encompassing reference for the practicing engineer in industry government and academia with relevant background and up to date information on the most important topics of modern mechanical engineering These topics include modern manufacturing and design robotics computer engineering environmental engineering economics patent law and communication information systems The final chapter and appendix provide information regarding physical properties and mathematical and computational methods New topics include nanotechnology MEMS electronic packaging global climate change electric and hybrid vehicles and bioengineering CAPP Joseph Tulkoff, 1985 Expert Systems Cornelius T. Leondes, 2001-09-26 This six volume set presents cutting edge advances and applications of expert systems Because expert systems combine the expertise of engineers computer scientists and computer programmers each group will benefit from buying this important reference work An expert system is a knowledge based computer system that emulates the decision making ability of a human expert The primary role of the expert system is to perform appropriate functions under the close supervision of the human whose work is supported by that expert system In the reverse this same expert system can monitor and double check the human in the performance of a task Human computer interaction in our highly complex world requires the development of a wide array of expert systems Expert systems techniques and applications are presented for a diverse array of topics including Experimental design and decision support The integration of machine learning with knowledge acquisition for the design of expert systems Process planning in design and manufacturing systems and process control applications Knowledge discovery in large scale knowledge bases Robotic systems Geographic information systems Image analysis recognition and interpretation Cellular automata methods for pattern recognition Real time fault tolerant control systems CAD based vision systems in pattern matching processes Financial systems Agricultural applications Medical diagnosis
