- A false sensation of movement

back vertebra, people usually feel that they, their environment, or both are spinning. The feeling is similar to that produced by the child-like game of spinning around and round, then suddenly stopping and feeling the surroundings spin. Clinically, people simply feel pulled to one side. Vertigo is not a diagnosis—it is a description of a sensation.

People with dizziness or vertigo may also experience and vomiting, difficulty with balance, and/or trouble walking. Some people have a rhythmic jerking movement of the eyes (nystagmus) during an episode of vertigo.

Delbert Houtard, an epistemic of marriage, says that people often use the terms "dirty" and "wrong" differently, perhaps because these terms are hard to describe in words. Thus, people may describe their relationships differently at different times. For example, the same one might feel like light-headedness one day and like vertigo the next. Because of this complexity, many doctors prefer to consider these symptoms together.

Some of the most common types of accidents that can occur while driving are described below. These accidents can be dangerous and even fatal, so it is important to be aware of them and to take steps to prevent them. Some of the most common types of accidents are:

...ing, driving, or operating heavy machinery requires far about 5 to 6% of the ... in that sector of any age but increases ... as people age. It affects about ... of people older than 60 or more than 65.

Dizziness may be temporary or chronic. Dizziness is considered chronic if it lasts more than a month. Chronic dizziness is more common among older people.

Disorders and vertigo are usually caused by disorders of the parts of the ear and brain that are involved in maintaining balance.

- Inner ear
- Brain stem and cerebellum
- Nerve tracts connecting the brain stem and cerebellum or within the brain stem

The inner ear contains structures (the semi-circular canals, utricle, and saccule) that enable the body to sense position and motion. Information from these structures is sent to the brain through the vestibulocochlear nerve (8th cranial nerve), which is also involved in hearing. This information is processed in the brain stem, which adjusts posture, and the cerebellum, which coordinates movements, to provide a sense of balance. A disorder in any of these structures can cause dizziness, vertigo, or both. Disorders of the inner ear sometimes also cause decreased hearing and/or ringing in the ear (tinnitus)—see Ear, Ringing or Buzzing in an ear (38).

Also, any disorder that affects brain function in general (for example, low blood sugar, low blood pressure, severe stress, or some drugs) can make people feel dizzy. Although symptoms may be disturbing and even incapacitating, only about 1% of cases represent a serious disorder.

Although there is some overlap, authors can roughly be divided into those with and without overlap:
