Compendium of community and indigenous strategies for climate change adaptation Mwenge Kahinda, J., Bahal'okwibale, P. M., Budaza, N., Mavundla, S., Nohayi, N.N., Nortje, K., Boroto, R.J., 2021-10-27 Climate change is a major challenge for life on Earth It is mainly manifested through modifications of average temperature rainfall intensity and patterns winds and solar radiation These modifications significantly affect basic resources such as land and water resources Populations at disproportionately higher risk of adverse consequences with global warming of 1.5 C and beyond include disadvantaged and vulnerable populations some indigenous peoples and local communities dependent on agricultural or coastal livelihoods IPCC 2018 Therefore adaptation measures are recommended in order to cope with climate change Indigenous peoples have developed practices for climate change adaptation based on their long term experience with adverse climatic effects There was thus a need to identify such practices as they could be effectively mainstreamed in community based adaptation programmes This report makes an inventory of indigenous and community adaptation practices across the world The inventory was mainly done through literature review field work and meetings with selected organisations The case studies documented are categorized in five technologies and practices themes including 1 Weather forecasting and early warning systems 2 Grazing and Livestock management 3 Soil and Water Management including cross slope barriers 4 Water harvesting and storage practices 5 Forest Management as a coping strategy to water scarcity and 6 Integrated wetlands and fisheries management These were then related to the corresponding main agro ecological zones AEZ namely arid semi arid sub humid humid highlands and coastal and wetlands The AEZ approach was considered as an entry point to adopting or adapting an existing indigenous strategy to similar areas Challenges that threaten the effectiveness of indigenous and community adaption strategies were identified These challenges include climate change itself which is affecting the indicators and resources used by communities human and livestock population growth which is increasing pressure on natural resources beyond their resilience thresholds current institutional and political settings which limit migrants movements and delimits pieces of usable land per household cultural considerations of communities such as taboos and spiritual beliefs and the lack of knowledge transfer to younger communities Indigenous knowledge provides a crucial foundation for community based adaptation strategies that sustain the resilience of social ecological systems at the interconnected local regional and global scales In spite of challenges and knowledge gaps these strategies have the potential of being strengthened through the adoption and adaptation of introduced technology from other communities or modern science Attention to these strategies is already being paid by several donor funded organisations although in an uncoordinated manner
