DePauw, Susan J. Gavron, 2005 Sports and the Physically Challenged Linda Mastandrea, Donna Czubernat, 2006-10-30 This encyclopedia is a great resource for those wishing to learn more about the history of the disability sport movement Research shows that little has been written about disability sports and the people events and organizations that created the movement Sports and physical activity transcend many barriers thus a book about disability sport and the people and events involved is likely to eradicate some of the barriers people with disabilities themselves face by creating a greater awareness and understanding of the abilities of people with disabilities This encyclopedia is a great resource for those wishing to learn more about the history of the disability sport movement Research shows that little has been written about disability sports and the people events and organizations that created the movement Sports and physical activity transcend many barriers thus a book about disability sport and the people and events involved is likely to eradicate some of the barriers people with disabilities face by creating a greater awareness and understanding of the abilities of people with disabilities Represent! Rosalie Mastaler, Hunter Mastaler, 2023-09-12 Throughout history people with disabilities have been trailblazing and breaking down barriers We want to tell you about these people We want their stories to be told for generations to come A shark attack survivor who surfs with a prosthetic leg A wheelchair user makes history on a Broadway stage An artist who paints with his foot a gold winning sled hockey team and an explorer who kayaks and climbs without being able to see In Represent Volume 1 you will meet thirty people with disabilities who are pursuing their dreams doing what they love and proudly representing their community Captivating illustrations will come alive as you read each story and discover what the human spirit is capable of Disabling Prejudice David Welch

Suggs, Jason Lee Guthrie, 2017 Part of the goal of the International Paralympic Committee is to touch the heart of all people for a more equitable society by exposing people to adaptive sports with the goal of improving public views toward people with disabilities The authors hypothesized that exposure to parasocial contact with images of athletes with disabilities could lead to a change in attitude during the formation of social identity disrupting the tendency to view the population of individuals with physical disabilities as other This case study found that viewing a documentary of a Paralympic sprinter produced in the same style as an Olympic feature appeared to affect the emotional components of attitude formation especially when compared with respondents who viewed a comparable documentary about an able bodied athlete These findings are of interest to proponents of adaptive sports producers of adaptive sports media and marketers who use athletes with disabilities in advertising campaigns
