Elephants and Savanna Woodland Ecosystems Christina

Skarpe, Johan T. du Toit, Stein R. Moe, 2014-04-02 During the nineteenth century ivory hunting caused a substantial decrease of elephant numbers in southern Africa Soon after that populations of many other large and medium sized herbivores went into steep decline due to the rinderpest pandemic in the 1890s These two events provided an opportunity for woodland establishment in areas previously intensively utilized by elephants and other herbivores The return of elephants to currently protected areas of their former range has greatly influenced vegetation locally and the resulting potential negative effects on biodiversity are causing concern among stakeholders managers and scientists This book focuses on the ecological effects of the increasing elephant population in northern Botswana presenting the importance of the elephants for the heterogeneity of the system and showing that elephant ecology involves much wider spatiotemporal scales than was previously thought Drawing on the results of their research the authors discuss elephant caused effects on vegetation in nutrient rich and nutrient poor savannas and the potential competition between elephants on the one hand and browsers and mixed feeders on the other Ultimately this text provides a comprehensive review of ecological processes in African savannas covering long term ecosystem changes and human wildlife conflicts It summarises new knowledge on the ecology of the sub humid African savanna ecosystems to advance the general functional understanding of savanna ecosystems across moisture and nutrient gradients

Rarity K.J. Gaston, 2012-12-06 To say you are writing about rarity is to invite two kinds of response Either one provokes a discussion of what rarity is or some comment on the complexity of the subject The objective of this book is to explore the nature of rarity its complexity if you like from one particular perspective on what rarity is. Primarily it is an opportunity to review, to synthesize and to question. The book is an attempt to draw together a vast body of literature to extract from it some general principles and to raise question marks over areas the foundations of which appear to be either absent or crumbling. A perusal of prefaces suggests that they often dwell as long upon what a book is not about as upon what it does concern. True to such a tradition I should state that this is specifically not a book about conservation although in some quarters anything about rarity is viewed as something about conservation. Nor does it contain more than a passing reference to the undoubtedly important issues of the role of genetics in rarity. Examples have been drawn from a wide variety of taxa. They are nonetheless somewhat depauperate in cases from marine systems. In part this bias results from the unevenness of my familiarity with the literature in part it perhaps also reflects differences in the questions asked and approaches to the study of communities and assemblages in terrestrial and marine systems. The Zoological Record, 2002 List of Periodicals University of Northern Iowa. African savanna elephants among the most magnificent and beloved of our fellow mammals are an extraordinary social and intelligent species. The Last Elephants an homage to these animals and a clarion call for their preservation is based upon a shocking finding savanna elephant populations across Africa are being decimated with two to three murdered every hour for their ivory. Without action these elephants soon will vanish from our world. They are a species in imminent danger of extinction and it is up to us to save them. Featuring more than 250 full color photos of the breathtaking animals by some of the world's top wildlife photographers. The Last Elephants was inspired by the devastating results of the continent wide Great Elephant Census of 2016 undertaken by Elephants without Borders in tandem with the world's most prominent conservation groups. The book joins together the voices and vision of scientists, lawmakers, rangers, conservationists and on the ground researchers to speak out against elephant killings, to close loopholes in international law that allow the ivory trade to continue and to pay tribute to the thousands who work to protect the animals including African communities who have elected to preserve and protect their elephant neighbors. Offering both profiles of preservation plans that work and hope for elephants future this is a must read for everyone concerned for the future of one of Earth's most captivating species. Journal of Machine Learning Research, 2007 An international forum covering all areas of machine learning. Geographical Journal of Zimbabwe, 1987 Science Citation Index, 1994 Vols for 1964 have guides and journal lists. Spatial Conservation Prioritization Atte Moilanen, Kerrie A.
