Cornish Landscape The Making Of The Engl:

Envisioning Landscape Dan Hicks, Laura McAtackney, Graham Fairclough, 2016-06-03 The common feature of landscape archaeology is its diversity of method field location disciplinary influences and contemporary voices The contributors to this volume take advantage of these many strands to investigate landscape archaeology in its multiple forms focusing primarily on the link to heritage the impact on our understanding of temporality and the situated theory that arises out of landscape studies Using examples from New York to Northern Ireland Africa to the Argolid these pieces capture the human significance of material objects in support of a more comprehensive nuanced archaeology Landscape Archaeology between Art and Science Sjoerd Kluiving, Erika Guttmann-Bond, 2025-10-01 Researchers in landscape archaeology use two different definitions of landscape One definition landscape as territory is used by the processual archaeologists earth scientists and most historical geographers within this volume By contrast post processual archaeologists new cultural geographers and anthropologists favour a more abstract definition of landscape based on how it is perceived by the observer Both definitions are addressed in this book with 35 papers that are presented here and that are divided into six themes 1 How did landscape change 2 Improving temporal chronological and transformational frameworks 3 Linking landscapes of lowlands with mountainous areas 4 Applying concepts of scale 5 New directions in digital prospection and modelling techniques and 6 How will landscape archaeology develop in the future This volume demonstrates a worldwide interest in landscape archaeology and the research presented here draws upon and integrates the humanities and sciences This interdisciplinary approach is rapidly gaining support in new regions where such collaborations were previously uncommon British and Irish Archaeology, 1994 The Drowning of a Cornish Prehistoric Landscape Andy M. Jones, Michael J. Allen, 2023-06-01 Between 2018 and 2019 Cornwall Archaeological Unit undertook two projects at Mount s Bay Penwith The first involved the excavation of a Bronze Age barrow and the second environmental augur core sampling in Marazion Marsh Both sites lie within an area of coastal hinterland which has been subject to incursions by rising sea levels Since the Mesolithic an area of approximately 1 kilometer in extent between the current shoreline and St Michael s Mount has been lost to gradually rising sea levels With current climate change this process is likely to occur at an increasing rate Given their proximity the opportunity was taken to draw the results from the two projects together along with all available existing environmental data from the area For the first time the results from all previous palaeoenvironmental projects in the Mount s Bay area have been brought together Evidence for coastal change and sea level rise is discussed and a model for the drowning landscape presented In addition to modeling the loss of land and describing the environment over time social responses including the wider context of the Bronze Age barrow and later Bronze Age metalwork deposition in the Mount s Bay environs are considered The effects of the gradual loss of land are discussed in terms of how change is perceived its effects on community resilience and the construction of social memory and narratives of place The volume presents the potential for nationally significant environmental data to survive which demonstrates the long term effects of climate change and rising sea levels and peoples responses to these over time

Making a Christian Landscape Sam Turner,2006 This book presents a new interpretation of the development of early medieval landscapes It stresses the importance of political and religious ideology in both the Celtic west and the Anglo Saxon east Using innovative new research methods and making expert use of archaeology place name evidence historical sources and land use patterns it challenges previous work on the subject by suggesting that the two regions have much in common Its central argument is that Christian ideology played a key role in the formation of the early medieval landscape

Ethnic Landscapes of America John A. Cross,2017-06-19 This volume provides a comprehensive catalog of how various ethnic groups in the United States of America have differently shaped their cultural landscape Author John Cross links an overview of the spatial distributions of many of the ethnic populations of the United States with highly detailed discussions of specific local cultural landscapes associated with various ethnic groups This book provides coverage of several ethnic groups that were omitted from previous literature including Italian Americans Chinese Americans Japanese Americans and Arab Americans plus several smaller European ethnic populations The book is organized to provide an overview of each of the substantive ethnic landscapes in the United States Between its introduction and conclusion which looks towards the future the chapters on the various ethnic landscapes are arranged roughly in chronological order such that the timing of the earliest significant surviving landscape contribution determines the order the groups will be viewed Within each chapter the contemporary and historical spatial distribution of the ethnic groups are described the historical geography of the group s settlement is reviewed and the salient aspects of material culture that characterize or distinguish the group s ethnic landscape are discussed Ethnic Landscapes of America is designed for use in the classroom as a textbook or as a reader in a North American regional course or a cultural geography course This volume also can function as a detailed summary reference that should be of interest to geographers historians ethnic scholars other social scientists and the educated public who wish to understand the visible elements of material culture that various ethnic populations have created on the landscape

The Cornish Lands of the Arundells of Lanherne, Fourteenth to Sixteenth Centuries H. S. A. Fox,Oliver James Padel,2000 The Arundell family of Lanherne near Newquay was one of the richest and most important in Cornwall in the late Middle Ages having extensive property in most parts of the county as well as elsewhere notably Devon and Dorset Cornwall Record Office has recently acquired the family archive and this provides the opportunity for publishing some of its rich contents As a first offering this volume contains rentals and surveys of the Arundell lands in Cornwall from the fourteenth to the sixteenth centuries These documents list the lands and tenants of each property belonging to the family often in considerable detail The earliest survey is dated 1343 just before the Black Death and covers some of the Arundell lands in the area of St Columb Major Newquay and Padstow The earliest full survey is for 1451 63 and includes those properties and others in the areas of the Lizard Penwith St Austell Bodmin and the Clay Country

Even then the family lands were still growing and in the sixteenth century are added further properties in South Cornwall including one near Looe and elsewhere these appear in the later documents published here These rentals and surveys provide much information about Cornish history in general and in particular for local and family historians in Cornwall for those interested in social and agricultural history manorial history place names and personal names There is an introduction covering some of the topics illustrated by the surveys and helping to make the material accessible to non specialists
