Abstract. Wang Zengqi's works often take real life as the background, and show the texture of real life by carefully depicting characters, plots and environments. He does not advocate grand themes or emphasize the publicity of discourse expression, but shows his observation, analysis and thinking about the event itself with a clear subjective intervention posture. This paper studies the characteristics of non-fiction writing in Wang Zengqi's novels and prose works, and discusses his interaction with non-fiction regional literature in his works, including the influence of region on him and his writing of the region. It also tells the aesthetic implication of Wang Zengqi's non-fiction writing from three aspects: characterization, narrative and stylistic language, as well as his inheritance of China's traditional non-fiction literature in expression and thought. According to these non-fiction writing characteristics, people can find that Wang Zengqi's works have unique literary and aesthetic values, and have a far-reaching impact on modern literature in China.

1 Introduction

1.1 Background and purpose of the project

With the development of literary theory, people's discussion on "authenticity" and "fiction" in literature has become more and more intense, and more attention has been paid to the existence of real events or archetypes in literary works. Non-fiction writing is the product of this trend of thought. The purpose of this research is to understand the non-fiction writing characteristics in Wang Zengqi's works, explore his unique expression and language style, and let readers better understand the creative style and ideological connotation of Wang Zengqi's works. At the same time, by studying Wang Zengqi's nonfiction writing, readers can think about the influence of this writing style on modern and contemporary literature in China, and provide useful reference and enlightenment for nonfiction writing in contemporary literary circles, thus broadening the boundary of literary creation and promoting the development and progress of modern and contemporary literature research in China.
