African Forms Art And Rituals:

African Forms Laure Meyer,2001 Illuminates an aspect of African art that has largely been neglected by other books African sculptures and art can be difficult to decipher because they are more than tokens of art for art s sake African art is often based on religious and philosophical values It is created not just for the patron but for the entire community using a language of form to help the society to understand what cannot otherwise be put into words Through an enlightening analysis of some continent s most emblematic artifacts this book decodes African art by putting it in the context of the broader culture It is thematically organized around key motifs to help you fully understand African art 150 colour illustrations Art and Oracle Alisa LaGamma, Metropolitan Museum of Art (New York, N.Y.),2000 Twenty eight African cultures are represented here by artifacts created to communicate with ancestors spirits and gods about such issues as health conception and determination of guilt or innocence Issued in conjunction with an April July 2000 exhibit at The Metropolitan Museum of Art NY this catalog contains extensive ethnographic descriptive and interpretive text in connection with each of 50 pictured pieces as well as a 13 page essay about divination in Sub Saharan Africa by John Pemberton III and an introductory essay by LaGamma Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR The Visual Arts of Africa Judith Perani,Fred. T. Smith,1998 Special features of this book follows a geographical organization across the continent each chapter is reader friendly with clear accessible sub headings represents important religious and utilitarian art traditions from the Sahara desert West Africa Central Africa Northeast Africa Eastern Africa and Southern Africa gives special attention to the themes of gender power and life cycle rituals which frequently intersect with one another to form an understanding of the arts of Africa includes figurative sculpture masquerades architecture textiles dress ceramics wall painting and leatherwork traditions includes selected examples of the earliest known documented art works as well as contemporary art of each geographical region includes an up to date bibliography incorporating recent published field research for each chapter and features 369 black and white illustrations 16 colored plates maps and a time line The Wiley-Blackwell Companion to African Religions Elias Kifon Bongmba,2012-05-21 The Wiley Blackwell Companion to African Religions brings together a team of international scholars to create a single volume resource on the religious beliefs and practices of the peoples in Africa Offers broad coverage of issues relating to African religions considering experiences in indigenous Christian and Islamic traditions across the continent Contributors are from a variety of fields ensuring the volume offers multidisciplinary perspectives Explores methodological approaches to religion from anthropological philosophical and historical perspectives Provides insights into the historical developments in African religions as well as contemporary issues such as the development of African initiated churches neo traditional religions and Pentecostalism Discusses important topics at the intersection of culture and religion in Africa including the arts health politics globalization gender relations and the economy Daily Life of Women Colleen Boyett,H. Micheal Tarver,Mildred Diane Gleason,2020-12-07 Indispensable for the student or researcher studying women's history this book draws upon a wide array of cultural settings and time periods in which women displayed agency by carrying out their daily economic, familial, artistic, and religious obligations. Since record keeping began, history has been written by a relatively few elite men. Insights into women's history are left to be gleaned by scholars who undertake careful readings of ancient literature, examine archaeological artifacts, and study popular culture such as folktales, musical traditions, and art. For some historical periods and geographic regions, this is the only way to develop some sense of what daily life might have been like for women in a particular time and place. This reference explores the daily life of women across civilizations. The work is organized in sections on different civilizations from around the world, arranged chronologically. Within each society, the encyclopedia highlights the roles of women within five broad thematic categories: the arts, economics, and work, family and community, life, recreation, and social customs, and religious life. Included are numerous sidebars containing additional information, document excerpts, images, and suggestions for further reading.

African Form and Imagery Detroit Institute of Arts, 1996. With an introductory essay by Nii O. Quarcoo. This catalogue is published in conjunction with the exhibition African Form and Imagery at the Detroit Institute of Arts, June 22, 1996–January 5, 1997.

Indigenous African Communication and Media Systems in a Digitized Age Unwana Samuel Akpan, Eddah Mbula Mutua, 2024-12-16. This book offers a comprehensive scholarly analysis of the digital adaptation of Indigenous African communication methods, challenging conventional narratives of media development through real-life case studies to highlight the resilience and relevance of African cultural expressions in an increasingly interconnected world.

The Dance, Art, and Ritual of Africa Michel Huet, Jean-Louis Paudrat, 1978. The Nsukka Artists and Nigerian Contemporary Art Simon Ottenberg, 2002. Volume presents the collected papers and commentary from the symposium The Nsukka Group and the State of Nigerian Contemporary Art sponsored by the Smithsonian Institution's National Museum of African Art, which was held on the 19 and 20 October 1997.

From Ritual to Modern Art Manfred Ewel, Anne Outwater, 2001. This beautifully produced and lavishly illustrated book addresses the huge imbalance in appreciation and representation of African art. Museums, exhibitions, lavish catalogues, magazines, and publications on African art are largely dominated by non-African scholars and institutions. These imbalances lie in the economic and political discrepancies, the history of European colonialism in Africa, and the Western tradition of scholarship and public education on art history and ethnography. Outside Africa, East African art has been assumed to be more or less nonexistent. This is one of the few publications to have come out of Tanzania, bearing witness to the appreciation of sculptural art and its tradition in that country. The book arose out of a symposium on The Significance of Traditional Cultures for Today's Society, which brought together Tanzanian and other experts organised by the National Museums of Tanzania and the German Cultural Centre in Dar es Salaam Papers from that symposium together with additional articles on the history and current state of sculpture in Tanzania present art from an African perspective and include contributions from Western scholars joining forces with African scholars Sociological ethnological and art historical approaches are included illustrating sculpture as the prime example of fine art in Africa both in its purely aesthetic sense and intricately linked with its ever changing cultural context

African Forms Marc Ginzberg,2000 Traditional African forms were noticed described and brought back to Europe as early as the statues and masks but none of the books on the subject covers the broad geographic and stylistic range adequately or presents these beautiful objects appropriately This volume reaches into practically all of Africa and thus covers an area perhaps 50% greater than that of most books Similarly it is unique in treating a broad variety of articles household objects and weapons jewelry and textiles musical instruments and devotional items The coverage is extensive but the purpose is not to be encyclopedic rather it is to present a wide assortment of top quality utilitarian objects beautifully photographed and to give sufficient background information carefully researched but in a lively readable format to enhance the enjoyment of this material as art BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved
