Childers, Eileen Gillooly, 2007 From the moment it opened on the first of May in the Crystal Palace in Hyde Park London the Great Exhibition of 1851 was one of the defining events of the Victorian period It stood not only as a visible symbol of British industrial and technological progress but as a figure for modernity a figure that has often been thought to convey one coherent message and vision of culture and society This volume examines the place occupied both materially and discursively by the Crystal Palace and other nineteenth and twentieth century exhibitions in the struggle to understand what it means to be modern Initiated in part by a number of conferences held in 2001 to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the Crystal Palace Victorian Prism provides new perspectives to historians literary critics art historians and others interested in how a large glass building in a London park could refract meaning from Caracas to Calcutta In its investigations of the ways of knowing and shaping the world that emerged during the planning and execution of this first world s fair Victorian Prism not only restores the multiplicity of experiences and other determining factors to our picture of the Great Exhibition it makes reevaluation of the exhibition and its legacies the occasion for reevaluating modernity itself in its broadest sense as the cultures potentialities and liabilities of the Enlightenment With essays by a number of leading scholars in their fields the collection as a whole focuses on how these exhibitions in attempting to define the cultures of their day incorporated a range of conflicting ideologies and agendas In doing so it offers a richer more complex understanding of the experience of modernity than we have previously acknowledged The volume also addresses the ways in which the cultural processes and tendencies brought together in these exhibitions have been refracted down to the present thus informing and complicating our own relationship to both modernity and postmodernity

Britain, the Empire, and the World at the Great Exhibition of 1851 Jeffrey A. Auerbach, Peter H. Hoffenberg, 2008 This collection of essays discusses the significance of colonial and foreign participation at the Great Exhibition in 1851 including the exhibits publications officials and visitors before during and after the event in London's Crystal Palace These essays consider the ways that the Exhibition connected London England and many parts of the world suggesting strong imperial international and global connections and meanings In doing so the contributors consider the importance of the event for England and the participating colonies and nations as well as the ways by which that participation affected their relationship to Britain and how the British saw their place in the world Unlike other publications this one emphasizes both nationalism and internationalism domestic and foreign issues

The Archer's Register, 1903

The Invention of the Modern Dog Michael Worboys, Julie-Marie Strange, Neil Pemberton, 2018-10-15 The story of the thoroughly Victorian origins of dog breeds For centuries different types of dogs were bred around the world for work sport or companionship But it was not until Victorian times that breeders started to produce discrete differentiated standardized breeds In The Invention of the Modern Dog Michael Worboys Julie Marie Strange and Neil Pemberton explore when where why and how Victorians invented the modern way of ordering and breeding dogs Though talk of breed was common before this period in the context of livestock the modern idea of a dog breed defined in terms of shape size coat and color arose during the Victorian period in response to a burgeoning competitive dog show culture The authors explain how breeders exhibitors and showmen borrowed ideas of inheritance and pure blood as well as breeding practices of livestock horse poultry and other fancy breeders and applied them to a species that was long thought about solely in terms of work and companionship The new dog breeds embodied and reflected key aspects of Victorian culture and they quickly spread across the world as some of Britain's top dogs were taken on stud tours or exported in a growing international trade Connecting the emergence and development of certain dog breeds to both scientific understandings of race and blood as well as Britain's posture in a global empire The Invention of the Modern Dog demonstrates that studying dog breeding cultures allows historians to better understand the complex social relationships of late nineteenth century Britain
