Beethovens Letters:

Beethoven's Letters Ludwig van Beethoven,1909 Beethoven's Letters Beethoven,1867 Beethoven's Letters 1790-1826, Volume 2 Ludwig van Beethoven,2022-06-10 The second volume of Beethoven s letters begin with the composer in maturity In these later years several of his most accomplished and beautiful musical works were completed It is clear from these written correspondences that music occupies a greater place in Beethoven s life more frequently he appends samples of and discusses musical phrasing and notation giving readers insight into his methods of composition Although Beethoven concealed his increasing deafness for years it eventually became public knowledge His ability to compose beautiful music was however undiminished and demonstrated in concerts around Europe Thought remarkable by the public Beethoven nevertheless lived in quite modest circumstances but felt deep appreciation for the acclaim with which he was held by various orchestral and philharmonic societies In personal matters Beethoven demonstrates great affection for his nephew Carl whom he had won custody in the courts However the letters also reveal an irascible and controlling side to the composer insistent that his nephew whom he came to view as a son be musically trained the news that Carl s musical talents are negligible is a blow Carl s subsequent intention to pursue a military career strains their relationship further Despite these trials Beethoven had the support of friends until the very end his illness worsening he was able to borrow money to pay for care but it soon became clear he was on his deathbed The great composer s final words comprise a short will in which his estate is bequeathed to Carl Ludwig van Beethoven died the next day as a thunderstorm raged outside his apartment Amazon

Schindler's Beethoven's Nachlass been placed at my disposal but also other letters from private sources owing to various happy chances and the kindness and complaisance of collectors of autographs I know better however than most people being in a position to do so that in the present work there can be no pretension to any thing approaching to a complete collection of Beethoven's Letters The master so fond of writing though he often rather amusingly accuses himself of being a lazy correspondent may very probably have sent forth at least double the amount of the letters here given and there is no doubt whatever that a much larger number are still extant in the originals The only thing that can be done at this moment however is to make the attempt to bring to light at all events the letters that could be discovered in Germany The mass of those which I gradually accumulated and now offer to the public with the exception of some insignificant notes appeared to me sufficiently numerous and important to interest the world and also to form a substantial nucleus for any letters that may hereafter be discovered On the other hand as many of Beethoven's Letters slumber in foreign lands especially in the unapproachable cabinets of curiosities belonging to various close fist-ed English collectors an entire edition of the correspondence could only be effected by a most disproportionate outlay of time and expense
