Behind the Scenes at the British Museum Andrew Burnett, British Museum, John Reeve, 2001 Beginning with a brief look at the history of the British Museum its collections and resources the core of this book is a series of chapters describing what goes on behind the scenes in the main areas of museum activity from temporary exhibitions and permanent galleries to less visible activities such as scientific research and archaeological excavation and children s events and the sharing of expertise In each chapter the authors give a general overview enlivened by brief contributions from individuals drawn from all parts of the Museum who describe their own particular jobs or projects Speaking for themselves from their own experience are curators and fundraisers conservators and photographers educators and children The final chapter looks to the future with major building projects and new forms of electronic communication set to change forever the traditional roles of many cultural institutions around the world The Museum Rupert Smith, 2007 A behind the scenes look at the British Museum and its employees Behind the Scenes British Museum (Natural History), Laurence Alfred Mound, 1987 The British Museum David Mackenzie Wilson, 2002 The British Museum is the oldest publicly funded museum in the world This volume tells the story of the collections the buildings that house them and the people who have administered and curated them since its foundation in 1753 The Representation of Islam in British Museums Ian Heath, 2007 The role of museums in creating and maintaining both cultural identities and their stereotypes is an area of debate and discourse in both archaeology and museology Despite the long history of the collection and public display of Islamic material there has been no systematic research into either its representation or into public perceptions of these representations This programme of research represents the first such study of the representation of Islamic material culture in British museums This commences with the discussion and evaluation of the history of contact between the Islamic world and Europe in general and Britain in particular Much of the history of this discourse is framed in terms of supra regional identity i e European and Islamic or Muslim These are constructed identities and the history of their construction is discussed before moving on to consider contemporary issues In addressing the subject of the representation of Islam in museums this work undertakes to examine both its production and consumption The production of representation and the creation of identity are achieved in museums through the medium of the display of material whilst consumption occurs through the medium of visiting and the meaning made by visitors In order to evaluate such production displays of Islamic material in museums are the subject of critical analysis This research has a qualitative element and seeks to tap into the perceptions of museum visitors of current museum displays Given the role played by museums in the construction of identity the questions underpinning this are firstly what are the messages they receive about the world of Islam and secondly what do these displays say about the Islamic world past and present Subject Index of the Modern Works Added to the British Museum Library British Museum.
