

AIR POLLUTION HUMAN HEALTH IMPACTS

EYES

Because there is a high flow of blood in the eyes, they are especially sensitive to small pollution particles like those found in PM<sub>2.5</sub>. Conditions such as dry eye syndrome, retinopathy, glaucoma, and cataracts have been connected to high air pollution exposure.

BRAIN

Air pollution exposure has been linked to a variety of neurological and cognitive impacts, including memory impairment, learning disabilities, anxiety, depression, schizophrenia, ADHD, and neurological conditions including dementia, Alzheimer's disease, Parkinson's disease, and stroke. Studies have even linked poorer air pollution decreases to lowered dementia risk.

LUNGS

A slew of respiratory impacts are attributed to dirty air, from respiratory inflammation to asthma development to chronic loss of pulmonary function. Because most air pollutants are breathed in, the respiratory system is often the place where air pollution-related disease is most readily observed.

HEART

Cardiovascular disease and death are closely linked to air pollution, with outcomes of heart disease, heart failure, cardiac arrest, and arrhythmias. Some studies have even shown a stronger correlation between cardiovascular damage and death after air pollution exposure than observed with respiratory diseases.

STOMACH

Studies have demonstrated a link between poor air quality and gastrointestinal diseases, including inflammatory bowel disease (IBD), irritable bowel syndrome (IBS), and appendicitis, as the inhalation of air pollution is associated with changes to the gut microbiota. Long-term exposure to high concentrations of NO<sub>2</sub> and PM has been linked to the early onset of Crohn's Disease.

LIVER

Animal studies find that long-term exposure to ambient air pollution is associated with metabolic-associated fatty liver disease, a disease that affects a quarter of the global population. The disease can progress to liver cancer and liver-related death.

BONES

A 2020 study found that ambient air pollution exposure is linked to lower bone mass. Other studies have found that air pollution may act as a risk factor for osteoporosis and be linked to higher rates of hospitalization for bone fractures, though research is limited.

REPRODUCTION

Though the mechanisms behind it are not yet understood, exposure to higher levels of air pollution has been associated with lower levels of fertility and more difficulty in conceiving, including in those undergoing in vitro fertilization, as well as in a variety of sperm quality parameters. Further research is needed to investigate how exactly air pollution acts on the reproductive system.

Earth Frank H. T. Rhodes,2012-06-10 It is impossible to grasp the whole planet or integrate all the descriptions of it But because we live here we have to try This is not just an artistic compulsion or an existential yearning still less an academic exercise It s a survival issue This is the only planet we have We re stuck here and we don t own the place it would be the height of arrogance to assume that we do We re tenants here not owners but we re tenants with hope for a long term tenancy We want to extend our lease just as far as we can from Earth A Tenant s Manual In Earth A Tenant s Manual the distinguished geologist Frank H T Rhodes President Emeritus of Cornell University provides a sweeping accessible and deeply informed guide to the home we all share showing us how we might best preserve the Earth s livability for ourselves and future generations Rhodes begins by setting the scene for our active planet and explaining how its location and composition determine how the Earth works and why it teems with life He emphasizes the changes that are of concern to us today from earthquakes to climate change and the clashes over the energy resources needed for the Earth s exploding population He concludes with an extended exploration of humanity s prospects on a complex protean and ultimately finite world It is not a question of whether the planet is sustainable the challenge facing life on Earth and the life of the Earth is whether an expanding and high consumption species like ours is sustainable Only new resources new priorities new policies and most of all new knowledge can reverse the damage that humanity is doing to our home and ourselves A sustainable human future Rhodes concludes in this eloquent sobering but ultimately optimistic book will require a sense of responsible stewardship for we are not owners of this planet we are tenants Surveying the systems large and small that govern Earth s processes and influence its changes Rhodes addresses the negative consequences of human activities for the health of its regulatory systems but offers practical suggestions as to how we might effect repairs or at least limit further damage to our home
