BOOK JACKET Agricultural Development Charles Edwin Kellogg, M.D. Thorne, 1975 The Agricultural Development Council A. Russell Stevenson, Virginia O. Locke, 1989

This history of the Agriculture Development Council (ADC) consists of eight chapters and four appendices. Chapter 1 traces the early years of the ADC from its inception in 1953 to 1957, the year of the retirement of the council's first director, J. Lossing Buck. The chapter covers the role of John D. Rockefeller III, the incorporation of the Council on Economic and Cultural Affairs, which later became the ADC, early activities and programs, sources of financial support, and early policies. Chapter 2 describes the organization during the years 1957-1973, while Arthur T. Mosher was executive director, including the use of associates in the field, the council's training materials project, publications, activities, guiding principles during the Mosher years, and projects conducted in particular Asian countries during that period. Chapter 3 describes the fellowship program under which 588 men and women from 17 countries studied for advanced degrees with the council's support from 1953 to 1985. Chapter 4 describes the Regional Research and Training program, which was begun in 1970 in 18 countries and which involved individual research grants, in-service training seminars, and workshops, professional exchanges, and publications. Chapter 5 covers research networks among U.S. universities funded through the ADC. Chapter 6 describes the years between 1974 and 1977, when the council was headed by Vernon W. Ruttan. Chapter 7 discusses the organization's activities between Ruttan's departure and Theodore M. Smith's assumption of leadership in 1979. Chapter 8 describes the Smith years, 1979-1985. The document contains 51 references, lists of trustees, staff, and fellows, a comprehensive ADC publications list, and a statement of the organization's income by year, which are appended.

CML Economics of Agricultural Development George W. Norton, Jeffrey R. Alwang, William A. Masters, 2015

Economics of Agricultural Development examines the causes, severity, and effects of poverty, population growth, and malnutrition in developing countries. It discusses potential solutions to these problems, progress made in many countries in recent years, and the implications of globalization for agriculture, poverty, and the environment. Topics covered in the book include: Means for utilizing agricultural surpluses to further overall economic development; The sustainability of the natural resource environment; Gender issues in relation to agriculture and resource use; The contribution of agricultural technologies; The importance of agricultural and macroeconomic policies as related to development and trade; and the successes and failures of such policies; Actions to encourage more rapid agricultural and economic development; The globalization of trade in goods. services and capital has been fundamental to changes being experienced in the agricultural and rural sectors of developing countries. It has major implications for the fight against poverty and food insecurity and for environmental sustainability. Recently agriculture has returned to a position of center stage in the development dialog as food price volatility has increased along with water scarcity and concerns grow over the effects of climate change on food supply and food security. This new edition of the essential textbook in the field builds on the 2010 edition and reflects the following developments: Growth in foreign demand for land and other natural resources; Significant progress in agricultural and economic development in some low income countries while others are being left behind; Continued growth in demand for higher valued farm products. This book is essential reading for undergraduate students seeking to understand the economics of agricultural development and the world food system including environmental and human consequences, international trade and capital flows. This book contains a wealth of real world case studies and is accompanied by a website that includes powerpoint lectures, a photo bank and a large set of discussion and exam questions at <http://ecagdev.agecon.vt.edu>
