Double Sorrow:

A Double Sorrow Lavinia Greenlaw, 2015-09-22 An original poetic work that brings alive Chaucer's great love story illuminating the psychological drama at its heart The captivating love story of ill fated Troilus and Criseyde first popularized by Chaucer's poem in the 1380s is one of the most enduring stories of the English language In A Double Sorrow award winning poet Lavinia Greenlaw breathes fresh life into the medieval tale through a series of seven line stanzas which mimic the form of Chaucer's original poem Set during the siege of Troy A Double Sorrow is the story of the Trojan hero Troilus and his beloved Criseyde whose traitorous father defects to the Greeks and persuades them to ask for his daughter in an exchange of prisoners Troilus suggests that Criseyde flee with him but she knows she will be universally condemned and instead pretends to submit to the exchange while promising Troilus that she will find a way to return to him within ten days But once in the company of the Greeks she soon realizes the impossibility of her promise to Troilus and in despair succumbs to another In this series of skillfully crafted poetic vignettes Greenlaw illuminates each small but irrevocable step as these characters argue each other and themselves into and out of love The result is a breathtaking and shattering read contemporary and timeless

Modernism and Mourning Patricia Rae, 2007 The essays in Modernism and Mourning examine the work of mourning in modernist literature or more precisely its propensity for resisting this work Drawing from recent developments in the theory and cultural history of mourning its contributors explore the various ways in which modernist writers repudiate Freud's famous injunction to mourners to work through their grief endorsing instead a resistant or melancholic mourning that shapes both their themes and their radical experiments with form The emerging picture of the pervasive influence of melancholic mourning in modernist literature casts new light on longstanding critical arguments especially those about the politics of modernism It also makes clear the pertinence of this literature to the present day in which the catastrophic losses of 9/11 of retaliatory war of racially motivated genocide of the AIDS epidemic have made the work of mourning a subject of widespread interest and debate Patricia Rae is Head of the Department of English at Queen's University
