

End-of-Life Pathway (from 1 November 2025)

Fact sheet for doctors and nurse practitioners

What is the End-of-Life Pathway?

The End-of-Life Pathway is a short-term pathway under the Support at Home program. It supports participants who have been diagnosed with 3 months or less to live and wish to remain at home, by providing more funding to access in-home aged care services.

On the End-of-Life Pathway, an older person will have access to a budget of $25,000 over 12 weeks. If the older person requires services beyond 12 weeks, an urgent Support Plan Review can be undertaken to transfer the participant to an ongoing Support at Home classification. The End-of-Life Pathway budget can be used up to the 16-week mark to support continuity of care.

Who is eligible for the End-of-Life Pathway?

An older person is eligible to access the End-of-Life Pathway if they meet the following criteria:

- a doctor or nurse practitioner advises estimated life expectancy of 3 months or less to live; and
- Australian-modified Karnofsky Performance Status (AKPS) score (mobility/frailty indicator) of 40 or less.

Note that participants will also need to meet general entry criteria for accessing funded aged care services, including being aged 65 or over (or age 50 or over for an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander person or homeless or at risk of homelessness).

Intellectual Disabilities in Down Syndrome from Birth and throughout Life: Assessment and Treatment

Marie-Claude Potier,Roger H. Reeves,2017-02-24 Research on the multiple aspects of cognitive impairment in Down syndrome DS from genes to behavior to treatment has made tremendous progress in the last decade The study of congenital intellectual disabilities such as DS is challenging since they originate from the earliest stages of development and both the acquisition of cognitive skills and neurodegenerative pathologies are cumulative Comorbidities such as cardiac malformations sleep apnea diabetes and dementia are frequent in the DS population as well and their increased risk provides a means of assessing early stages of these pathologies that is relevant to the general population Notably persons with DS will develop the histopathology of Alzheimer s disease formation of neuritic plaques and tangles and are at high risk for dementia something that cannot be predicted in the population at large Identification of the gene encoding the amyloid precursor protein its localization to chromosome 21 in the 90 s and realization that all persons with DS develop pathology identified this as an important piece of the amyloid cascade hypothesis in Alzheimer s disease Awareness of the potential role of people with DS in understanding progression and treatment as well as identification of genetic risk factors and also protective factors for AD is reawakening For the first time since DS was recognized major pharmaceutical companies have entered the search for ameliorative treatments and phase II clinical trials to improve learning and memory are in progress Enriched environment brain stimulation and alternative therapies are being tested while clinical assessment is improving thus increasing the chances of success for therapeutic interventions Researchers and clinicians are actively pursuing the possibility of prenatal treatments for many conditions an area with a huge potential impact for developmental disorders such as DS Our goal here is to present an overview of recent advances with an emphasis on behavioral and cognitive deficits and how these issues change through life in DS The relevance of comorbidities to the end phenotypes described and relevance of pharmacological targets and possible treatments will be considerations throughout Life William K. Purves,2004 New edition of a text presenting underlying concepts and showing their relevance to medical agricultural and environmental issues Seven chapters discuss the cell information and heredity evolutionary process the evolution of diversity the biology of flowering plants and of animals and ecology and biogeography Topics are linked by themes such as evolution the experimental foundations of knowledge the flow of energy in the living world the application and influence of molecular techniques and human health considerations Includes a CD ROM which covers some of the subject matter and introduces and illustrates 1 700 plus key terms and concepts Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR *A woman of thirty.
