Middleton, Caroline Wilson-Barnao, 2025-12-08 Collecting Social Media in Museums draws attention to the importance of collecting social media as museum objects and explores the role of rapid response and born digital collecting in documenting social history as it happens. Drawing on a range of case studies and facilitated conversations with museum professionals and technology experts, the book discusses different approaches to incorporating creator content from social media into museum practice. It highlights the need to bridge the gap between traditional museum practices that focus only on material aspects and what the authors argue is increasingly fundamental to human experience and identity formation: social media and digital cultural artefacts. Providing readers with the critical tools necessary for a rethinking of museum collecting practices in the digital age, the book highlights different projects that have navigated ethical, legal, and copyright concerns for institutions. The book culminates with recommendations relating to the implementation of social media collecting strategies, ultimately calling for the museum to be more responsive to safeguarding the content that is generated online for future generations. Collecting Social Media in Museums provides museum professionals around the world with valuable tools that will empower them to change their practices and respond to social media in real time before it's too late to act. Scholars and students engaged in the study of museums, media, and digital humanities will also find much to interest them within the pages of this book.

This book documents and extends the exhibition project Interarchiv of the Kunstraum der Universität Le Neuburg in cooperation with Hans Peter Feldmann and Hans Ulrich Obrist. 1997-2002. Colophon. The Ethics of Collecting Trauma Alexandra Bounia, Andrea Witcomb, 2024-10-31. The Ethics of Collecting Trauma offers an interdisciplinary dialogue on the ethics of contemporary museums that are involved in collecting moments of collective trauma. Including a range of international contributions, the volume explores the ethics of collecting material that documents contemporary traumatic events. The case studies focus on four categories of such events: forced migration, terrorism attacks, major natural disasters, and cultural traumas such as the ongoing legacy of colonization. Contributors consider whether cultural institutions have a right to collect materials about these events and what kind of materials they should focus on if so, who is being memorialized, who should hold the power to decide what is collected, and what the critical timeline for such initiatives is. The volume also considers what the larger purpose of such collecting is and how to deal with past collecting practices, arguing that museums need to consider in a careful and deliberate way their ethical responsibilities as cultural institutions. The Ethics of Collecting Trauma will be of interest to academics and students working in the areas of museum and heritage studies, cultural studies, trauma studies, memory studies, and migration studies. The book will also appeal to museum professionals working around the globe. Collecting Activism, Archiving Occupy Wall Street Kylie Message, 2019-09-10. Collecting Activism Archiving Occupy Wall Street explores the material collections produced by participants of Occupy Wall Street in 2011 that bear witness to the experience and agency of the 99%. Examining processes of collection development as a lens through which to investigate the sociology of protest and reform movements the book questions what contribution a dual study of the material culture of dissent and the production of a collection hosting the material culture of dissent might offer to a range of disciplines and practices It asks if and how a collections based study can test the propositions tactics and limits of activism from archival museological and political perspectives Collecting Activism Archiving Occupy Wall Street draws from interdisciplinary fields including museum studies collection studies archive studies cultural studies and public history It will be a valuable resource for scholars and practitioners engaged with contemporary cause based collecting activist archiving public history and the cultural politics and sociology of social reform movements It models strategies for activating historical archives and collections based data and for engaging with autoethnographic records to represent and analyze the material residue of protest and reform movements today
