Hippy island in the Gulf

CEDAR KEY - GEORGE T LEWIS AIRPORT

Cedar Key is a small offshore island between Waccasassa Bay and the Suwannee Sound and is located in the northernmost part of the Gulf of Mexico. Even just the approach over Waccasassa Bay or Withlacoochee Bay is very exciting. Flying from the mainland, you can see how farmland turns into swamp and marshland, the water slowly gains the upper hand until you are finally flying over the ocean. It's a quick flight because Cedar Key is just barely offshore, so don't bother packing your life vests.

There isn't much going on here during the week, but weekends are very busy because the island is popular among the locals for swimming, fishing, boating or a quick ride on their Harley. The small airport is operated with American pragmatism, which might take some getting used to for Europeans. The taxiway can be a bit chaotic at peak arrival times with airplanes, cars, pedestrians and bicyclists everywhere, but somehow it all works out. Like I said, pragmatism is the law of the land here. You can park on both sides of the taxiway. What is also unusual is that upon your approach you are asked over the CTAF frequency whether you need a shuttle into town. Judy & Gale operate a very casual taxi service that takes guests to and from Cedar Key for $5 per person. If you are not contacted by radio, you can also call directly (352-949-2127). The taxi will then come directly to your plane.
