Conceptualizing A New Path:

Conceptualizing Germany's Energy Transition Ludger Gailing, Timothy Moss, 2016-05-06 This is the first book to explore ways of conceptualizing Germany's ongoing energy transition. Although widely acclaimed in policy and research circles worldwide, the Energiewende is poorly understood in terms of social science scholarship. There is an urgent need to delve beyond descriptive accounts of policy implementation and contestation in order to unpack the deeper issues at play in what has been termed a grand societal transformation. The authors approach this in three ways. First, they select and characterize conceptual approaches suited to interpreting the reordering of institutional arrangements, socio-material configurations, power relations, and spatial structures of energy systems in Germany and beyond. Second, they assess the value of these concepts in describing and explaining energy transitions, pinpointing their relative strengths and weaknesses and exploring areas of complementarity and incompatibility. Third, they illustrate how these concepts can be applied individually and in combination to enrich empirical research of Germany's energy transition.

Incremental Conceptualization for Language Production Markus Guhe, 2020-07-24 Incremental Conceptualization for Language Production discusses the simultaneous actions involved in thinking and speaking, as well as the piecemeal way in which individuals construct an internal representation of the external world and use this internal representation for speaking. Author Markus Guhe presents the first computational model that captures these observations in a cognitively adequate fashion. The volume is an innovative look at the mind's process of producing semantic representations that can be transformed into language. The first section of the book illustrates four stages of conceptualization: construction of a conceptual representation, selection of content to be verbalized, linearization of the selected content, and generation of preverbal messages. Guhe then analyzes incremental processing, which takes place in a piecemeal fashion, and offers a blueprint of incremental models while discussing the dimensions along which the processing principles and the blueprint varies. Finally, incremental processing and conceptualization merge to form the incremental conceptualiser model (inC). The effective use of inC is demonstrated through simulations carried out with the implementation of the model. Intended for researchers in cognitive science, particularly cognitive modeling of language, this volume will also interest researchers in artificial intelligence, computational linguistics, psycholinguistics, and linguistics and psychology.

Conceptual Coordination William J. Clancey, 1999-08 This volume extends Clancey's successful exploration of Situated Cognition by examining how concepts may be physically represented as coordinated percepts. Cognitive scientists, both theoretical and applied, will find this book a fascinating read.

Theory and Practice from a Cognitive Perspective Renia Lopez-Oziedo, 2023-08-22 This book is intended as a theoretical and practical resource for both new and experienced teachers of a second language. It integrates some of the ideas from cognitive linguistics into existing classroom approaches for teaching English as a second language through a series of lesson plans developed by teachers of English from Mainland China and Hong Kong. The lesson plans provide step-by-step instructions for teachers including resources and an explanation of the theories underpinning each step These plans many of which are integrated into specific English as a foreign language textbook units encourage teachers to be creative by adding or adapting the material they have in order to engage their students Although the main audience is English teachers the theoretical principles covered are applicable to teachers of any foreign language and the practical examples provided in the lesson plans can be easily modified to teach other languages as well Similarly it is not just for teachers working in Chinese contexts but for anyone interested in embodied cognition as a teaching approach I intend these pages to serve as a companion for teachers to reflect on their existing practices to provide new ideas and to make them aware of the many factors affecting learning
