Condition Of Madness:

The Origin of Civilisation and the Primitive Condition of Man. Mental and Social Condition of Savages, Etc Sir John Lubbock, 1875

Towards a Poetics of the Mental Health Play Anja Drautzburg, 2020 This study traces key developments in theatre's engagement with mental health since the 1970s. It introduces and applies the concept of the mental health play as accurate and timely in addressing the way mental distress and mental illness have been brought to the stage. The study argues that the theatre is a central calibrator for reflecting developments and tensions in as well as attitudes towards mental health care and thus opens up a domain that still has stereotypes and myths attached to it. Theatre's representations of mental distress inform and shape cultural production and vice versa. Mental health plays are central in encouraging and fostering conversations about mental health and they thus intervene in ongoing debates. Due to its interdisciplinary approach, this study contributes to and extends existing research in multiple fields including theatre and science performance studies and the medical humanities.

Mental Illness in Ancient Medicine, 2018-01-29 In Mental Illness in Ancient Medicine From Celsus to Paul of Aegina a detailed account is given by a range of experts in the field of the development of different conceptualizations of the mind and its pathology by medical authors from the beginning of the imperial period to the seventh century CE. New analysis is offered both of the dominant texts of Galen and of such important but neglected figures as Rufus Archigenes, Athenaeus of Attalia, Aretaeus, Caelius Aurelianus and the Byzantine compilers. The work of these authors is considered both in its medical historical context and in relation to philosophical and theological debates on ethics and on the nature of the soul with which they interacted.

Organized into ten chapters, the book begins with an introduction to the literary, political and social contexts of the Augustan Age. The next six chapters each focus on an individual lyric and elegiac poet: Catullus, Horace, Tibullus, Propertius, Ovid and Sulpicia, followed by a survey of several lesser-known poets and post-Augustan elegy and lyric. The text concludes with a discussion of major tropes and themes in Latin elegy and lyric and an overview and
