FELLOWSHIP TRAINING PROGRAMS IN CLINICAL PHARMACOLOGY

I. Introduction

Qualified fellowship training programs in clinical pharmacology must provide the intellectual environment, formal instruction, peer interaction, and clinical experience necessary for fellows to acquire knowledge, skills, and attitudes essential to the practice of clinical pharmacology. An accredited fellowship program in clinical pharmacology will provide at least two years of well-supervised educational experience.

II. Institutional Resources and Responsibilities

A. Administration

1. In order to meet the special requirements of the clinical pharmacology fellowship, sponsoring institutions must have a meaningful affiliation with an LCME-accredited medical school unless the institution can demonstrate equivalent commitment to education and research.
2. To qualify as a sponsor of a clinical pharmacology training program, an institution must promote meaningful interaction of clinical pharmacology fellows with residents and fellows from other clinical services by serving as a significant training site for a minimum of at least two accredited general residency programs (e.g., internal medicine, family medicine, pediatrics). The institution must serve as the sponsor of these two programs, and a sufficient number of residents in these programs should regularly participate in training in the institution.
3. The institution must have demonstrated a commitment to clinical pharmacology as evidenced by divisional, departmental, center, or sectional status of the unit responsible for the training program with reporting responsibility directly to the Department Chairperson, Dean, or Center Director.
4. Adequate financial support must be evidenced by appropriate compensation for faculty and fellows, suitable facilities for educational programs, appropriate support services, and opportunities for research.
5. Fellows must have no more than 20% of their time committed to clinical responsibility unrelated to education, research, or consultation in clinical pharmacology.
6. The Program director must have the authority to organize, implement, and provide leadership for the activities of the educational program at all sites. The program director should be director of the clinical pharmacology unit or have a reporting relationship that ensures appropriate authority.
