Comparative Reception Of Relativity:

The Comparative Reception of Relativity T.F Glick,2012-12-06 The present volume grew out of a double session of the Boston Colloquium for the Philosophy of Science held in Boston on March 25 1983 The papers presented there by Biezunski Glick Goldberg and Judith Goodstein offered both sufficient comparability to establish regularities in the reception of relativity and Einstein's impact in France Spain the United States and Italy and sufficient contrast to suggest the salience of national inflections in the process The interaction among the participants and the added perspectives offered by members of the audience suggested the interest of commissioning articles for a more inclusive volume which would cover as many national cases as we could muster Only general guidelines were given to the authors to treat the special or general theories or both hopefully in a multidisciplinary setting to examine the popular reception of relativity or Einstein's personal impact or to survey all these topics In a previous volume on the comparative reception of Darwinism one of us devised a detailed set of guidelines which in general were not followed In our opinion the studies in this collection offer greater comparability no doubt because relativity by its nature and its complexity offers a sharper more easily bounded target As in the Darwinism volume this book concludes with an essay intended to draw together in comparative perspective some of many themes addressed by the participants

Loving Faster Than Light Katy Price,2012-11-12 This is an insightful examination of one of the essential problems of the history of science how does elite esoteric knowledge get read used modified and owned by those outside the professional scientific community Price focuses on one of the defining scientific ideas of the 20th century and skillfully demonstrates the many genres and styles through which it was adopted and changed Albert

Einstein—Italian Memories Sandra Linguerri,Raffaella Simili,2025-01-30 This book is dedicated to Einstein's personal and scientific relationships with Italy which began as early as adolescence and continued over various stages of his life It collects together a wealth of historical documentation including the letters in which Einstein recalls having lived as a young man with his family in Lombardy Pavia and Milan the texts of three lectures delivered by Einstein in Italian in October 1921 in Bologna at the invitation of the mathematician Federigo Enriques the only lectures he held in Italy the correspondence with Enriques and other Italian intellectuals together with the letter that Einstein sent in 1931 to the Minister of Justice Alfredo Rocco to try to avoid the infamy of the oath of allegiance to the fascist regime imposed by Mussolini on university professors The book closes with some writings on relativity from 1907 to 1914 Einstein Abraham Corbino Castelnuovo and the 1920s debate between pro relativists and anti relativists published in the international journal Scientia founded in 1907 by Enriques

Making 20th Century Science Stephen G. Brush,2015-04-13 A large scale historical look at the implementation of the scientific method and how scientific theories come to be accepted The Religion of Life Sarah Walsh,2022-01-25 The Religion of Life examines the interconnections and relationship between Catholicism and eugenics in early twentieth century Chile Specifically it demonstrates that the popularity of eugenic science was not diminished by the influence of Catholicism

there In fact both eugenics and Catholicism worked together to construct the concept of a unique Chilean race la raza chilena A major factor that facilitated this conceptual overlap was a generalized belief among historical actors that male and female gender roles were biologically determined and therefore essential to a functioning society As the first English language study of eugenics in Chile The Religion of Life surveys a wide variety of different materials periodicals newspapers medical theses and monographs produced by Catholic and secular intellectuals from the first half of the twentieth century What emerges from this examination is not only a more complex rendering of the relationship between religion and science but also the development of White supremacist logics in a Latin American context

Twentieth Century Physics Laurie M. Brown, Abraham Pais, A. B. Pippard, 1995 This is a major historical study of the scientific and cultural development of physics in the 20th century Its list of contributors includes four Nobel Laureates 12 Fellows or Foreign Members of the Royal Society and many other physicists of world renown

Science and Technology in East Asia Joseph Needham, 2001 The 20th International Congress of History of Science Liege July 1997 was the first to be held after Joseph Needham 1900-1995 passed away During the Congress the symposium entitled Global history of science was dedicated to this scholar usually recognised as the founder of the study of East Asian science The symposium aimed at highlighting the significance of his research which has influenced historians of science in their study of all civilisations The papers presented there and included in this volume focus on various historiographical and methodological issues raised by Needham's work and on questions which he has opened to investigation. These issues and questions are relevant not only to the history of East Asian science and technology but also to the history of science at large once one envisions it in a global perspective. This volume is rounded off by four further papers that are representative of current research in the history of East Asian science.
