Scientific Inquiry Cycle: Review

Science helps communities solve problems by developing knowledge and creating things that "solve" real-world issues such as water quality or waste management using scientific methods or improve solutions that have a positive impact. Understanding the problem fully, including its causes and effects, is the first step in finding an effective solution.

Designing solutions requires considering various conditions, such as budget, time, and safety concerns. Sometimes, important trade-offs occur. Challenges, setbacks, and the inability to weigh trade-offs carefully for solutions, limiting resources for a task that may affect its cost and ease of use, can influence the effectiveness of the solution.

After identifying a solution, determining how it works, what conditions affected it, and any compromises that have already been or should be made on the idea. Communication, giving credit where it is due, and reflecting on the results of the solution are important steps. The process of sharing findings, ideas, and solutions encourages responsible decision-making and helps communities thrive.
