The Human Relationship with Information Mark Lenker, 2025-06-30 The Human Relationship with Information uses a philosophical lens to explore questions about the fundamental place of information in a fulfilling human life Drawing on the author's experience as an instruction librarian and from research by others working in the humanities psychology and information science this book suggests new directions for information ethics and information literacy Questioning what makes an encounter with information meaningful for the people librarians and educators serve Lenker also considers what our uncertain life expectancies and limited attention spans mean for the ways we prioritize our time with information Considering what the characteristics of an excellent mind are this book explores how our information consumption habits nurture or hinder the development of those qualities Inviting readers to think about how information consumes a precious and finite resource our attention this book ultimately explores how best to have a rich satisfying life with information The Human Relationship with Information will inspire librarians and other educators to take a second look at their work and think more deeply and sincerely about how information shapes the lives of the people they serve It will be essential reading for anyone thinking about the ways that information and libraries enrich and sometimes complicate people's quality of life

Alternative Psychotherapies Jean Mercer, 2014-07-30 Alternative Psychotherapies Evaluating Unconventional Mental Health Treatments addresses concerns about current and newly emerging mental health treatments that are considered unconventional In a parallel to complementary and alternative medical treatments alternative psychotherapies lack research support are at odds with established information about human personality and development and may actually be harmful Professionals and students in the helping professions may find such treatments confusing and difficult to differentiate from emerging therapies that have not yet established a foundation of evidence this is especially problematic if clients propose using unconventional therapies they have found on the Internet

Alternative Psychotherapies examines a series of unconventional treatments in terms of the research supporting them their theoretical and historical backgrounds and the potential or documented adverse events that may be associated with them Therapies for both adults and children are included and topics range from recovered memory therapies to bodywork to treatments for autism and to special education issues Alternative psychotherapies frequently share certain historical backgrounds and psychotherapists can use historical insights as well as an understanding of basic research rules and psychological theory to identify unconventional treatments other than the ones discussed The book concludes with a discussion of the advantages and disadvantages of greater regulation of alternative therapies as compared to the current situation in which few mental health interventions are banned or limited by law

Women's Power in Late Medieval Romance Amy Noelle Vines, 2011 A reading of how women's power is asserted and demonstrated in the popular medieval genre of romance The cultural and social power of women in the Middle Ages is perhaps hard to trace with evidence for it scarce This book argues that medieval romances provide a central but under explored source for and examples of such authority By reassessing the influence exerted by female characters in a spectrum that includes both intellectual and chivalric aid and in some cases patronage it considers how they functioned as models of cultural intellectual and social authority in medieval literary texts In addition to examples set by the family connections socio political networks and textual communities in which they lived this study argues that women also learned methods of influence from the books they read In texts like Troilus and Criseyde and Partonope of Blois the female reader encounters an explicit demonstration of how a woman's intellectual and financial resources can be used The literary representations of women's cultural power expose a continuum of influence from non material effects to material sway in the medieval patronage system an influence often unacknowledged in strictly historical and extra literary sources Amy N Vines is Assistant Professor in the Department of English University of North Carolina Greensboro

Chaucer Translator Paul Beekman Taylor, 1998 This book argues that Chaucer's theory of translation is based upon particular hermeneutic procedures of the day applied to the authoritative literary texts in the European cultural tradition These texts encompass the European tradition extending from Plato through Christian humanism and Jean de Meun to Italian and French contemporaries The work displays Chaucer's development as a translator from early attempts to render contemporary French poetry in an English courtly idiom to the later masterly translations in Troilus and The Canterbury Tales The later translations disdain mirroring Latin and vernacular texts with English and instead read through the surface of a literary source to a sense Chaucer discovers or invents Throughout the book emphasis is placed on Chaucer's sensitivity to the poetic possibilities in the polysemy of the English language

Developing Ecological Consciousness Christopher Uhl, 2003 A second edition of this textbook is now available Developing Ecological Consciousness offers an ecology based wonder filled initiation to the Universe and the Planet Earth It examines the ways in which humans are damaging the Earth and their own bodies and spirits The book presents paradigms values and tools essential for both planetary and personal transformation
