Nova Solyma, the Ideal City Samuel Gott, 1902 Nova Solyma, the Ideal City John Milton, Samuel Gott, 1902 The Open Court Paul Carus, 1908 vols 46 47 have special title New Orient Society monograph Feminist Narrative and the Supernatural Katherine J. Weese, 2008-04-14 Women authors have explored fantasy fiction in ways that connect with feminist narrative theories as examined here by Katherine J Weese in seven modern novels These include Margaret Atwood's Lady Oracle Iris Murdoch's The Sea the Sea Marilynne Robinson's Housekeeping Carol Shields's The Stone Diaries Barbara Kingsolver's The Poisonwood Bible and Toni Morrison's Beloved and Paradise The fantastic devices highlight various feminist narrative concerns such as the authority of the female voice the implications of narrative form for gender construction revisions to traditional genre conventions by women writers and the recovery of alternative versions of stories suppressed by dominant historical narratives Weese also frames the fantastic elements in the scope of traditional fictional structure

Montgomery, 2013-10-03 Contested Boundaries aims to map the space between A Mercy Toni Morrison's ninth and arguably most enigmatic novel and the fiction comprising the author's multiple text canon The volume accomplishes this through the inclusion of eight original essays representing a range of critical approaches that trouble narrative boundaries demarcating the novels included in Morrison's evolving opus with A Mercy serving as a locus for discussion of her refiguration of concerns central to her narrative project Issues relevant to the conflicted mother child relationship the haunting legacy of slavery the black female body as a site of trauma the thorny quest for an idealized home the perilous transatlantic journey the demands associated with love and yes the desire for mercy recur but they do so with a difference a Morrisonian twist that demands close intellectual scrutiny Essays included in this volume are invested in a persistent scholarly investigation of this narrative and rhetorical play The publication of A Mercy represents a climactic moment in Morrison's evolving political consciousness her fictional geography and consequently a shift in the margins marking her multiple text universe The complicated markers of difference figuring in Recitatif and continuing with Paradise and Love culminate in the author's ninth work of fiction This volume ventures to chart that change not for the sake of encoding it but in an effort to open up new ways of interrogating her writing
