Scientific Inquiry Cycle: Review

Science helps communities solve problems by applying knowledge and inventing things. After "brain" work with a local issue, such as water quality or waste management, using science to make or improve solutions can have a positive impact. Understanding the problem fully, including its causes and effects, is the first step in finding an effective solution.

Designing solutions becomes considering various constraints, such as budget, time, and safety concerns. Community members have a part of a solution right from the start, and their concerns and ideas can help shape the solution. For students, creating solutions for a issue that they affect in real and safe ways can influence the effectiveness of the solution.

After identifying a solution, discussing how it works, what constraints affected it, and any compromises that have already been or should be made on the way. Communication, using simple words, and reflecting on the results of the solution are important steps. The process of sharing findings locally encourages responsible decision-making and helps communities thrive.
