Believing Experiencing:

Belong, Experience, Believe Noriyuki Miyake, 2011 Why don't Japanese people become Christians Miyake brings a pastor's heart and a researcher's mind to a question that has been asked many times in Christian mission After reviewing Japanese social and religious life and evaluating the history of mission strategies so far he highlights two key ways that Japanese people relate to religion first they look for a sense of belonging to a community and second they receive religious truth through first hand experience rather than through abstract doctrine From this basis he develops a new strategy for churches to reach out into Japanese community

Intuition as Conscious Experience Ole Koksvik, 2020-11-29 Is torturing the innocent OK Just now something happened it seemed to you that torturing the innocent is wrong What kind of mental state were you in What is its nature Perhaps you now believe that torturing the innocent is wrong because it just seemed to you that it is If so that seems appropriate But is it really and if so what could explain this In this book Koksvik argues these mental states form a psychological kind called intuition and that having an intuition indeed justifies you in believing what it says What explains this he argues is how similar intuition is to perception Through a detailed examination he shows that intuition just like perception is a conscious experience and that the two experience types have important properties in common in virtue of which they can both justify belief In sharp contrast to traditional thought Koksvik argues that intuition is completely unrestricted in content we have intuitions about morality and metaphysics but also about all sorts of everyday things like danger or trustworthiness and in all cases they can justify The use of intuition is thus not only a legitimate part of philosophical and scientific practice it also plays a pervasive important and legitimate role in all of our everyday rational lives
